Twenty-two Gas Tanks Let Go Causing Awful Disaster. Eight Bodies Were Taken Out Of Ruins This Afternoon, and More Employees Are Said to Be Missing. Explosion Wrecked Many of Finest Business Blocks in Adjacent Territory.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Twenty-two tanks in the gas charging station at Seventy-Third and South Chicago avenue exploded before noon. Five employees were killed, and a score injured, two seriously. The tanks were of the style attached to railroad cars for lighting purposes. Eleven of the tanks exploded in rapid succession and were followed at short intervals by the other tanks. The fire spread among the property of the Peoples Gas, Light & Coke Company and threatened to reach the large storage tanks of that company. Persons were warned to move from their homes for a radius of one mile. After the explosion of the gas in the mammoth tanks, Supt. Ralph Wells ordered the waste pipes opened. Those pipes ran outside of the plant and in a short time the big tanks were discharging the gas into the air. This was a dangerous undertaking, but it was chanced and proving successful, prevented a larger destruction of property. Across South Chicago Avenue directly opposite the gas storage buildings was a large coal shed stored with coal used in the manufacture of gas. The huge coal pile was ignited and in a few moments the blaze there was beyond control. When the danger of the larger tanks exploding had been reduced to a minimum the chief engineer, with several assistants entered the grounds and shut off the supply pipes from the ruined buildings to the large tanks. He said it was almost miraculous that the fire had not entered the larger tanks. One of the victims was blown through a wall and one hundred feet away from the building in which he was employed. He was fearfully crushed, but may live. He said: "I was working about one of the gas tanks when the first explosion occurred. I believe one of the tanks in the row east of us blew up. The ground

THOUSANDS

Of Men Have Again Gone to Work Upon the Many Railroads In the United States.

Estimated That the Pennsylvania System Has Pestored Positions to 11,000 Men Who Were Laid Off.

New York, Nov. 18.—A revival of business on the railroads entering this city, has, according to statistics gathered by the Herald, resulted within the last six weeks in the re-employment of more than 20,000 men who were dropped from the pay rolls during a period of the few months ending with June 1, last. In this list the Pennsylvania company which made the most sweeping reduction, is estimated to have taken back on its many systems 11,000 men, the New York Central has reemployed 6,000 more, the Reading system in the neighborhood of 2,000, and the independent lines as many more. At every railroad office in New York and Philadelphia, the statement was "running on full time in every department," or "will be running on full time very soon." In addition to this the railroads, which were compelled to economize in the purchase of freight cars during the dull period, have all ordered new equipment. The New York Central has ordered 5,000 new freight cars and 155 new locomotives.

The Pennsylvania has ordered 6,000 new freight cars, besides a number of new locomotives. On the other roads the orders will exceed 4,000 new freight cars.

WAR MINISTER HAS RESIGNED.

Panama, Nov. 18.—General Huertas, the war minister, resigned this morning and President Amador by a decree accepted his resignation, leaving Huertas the rank of general unattached, but with a salary, which is equivalent to a pension. The army will not be disbanded just now. General Yuandía, secretary of the war office and an old veteran, has been appointed to the supreme command of the troops. Everything is quiet.

General Huertas in the quiet tendering his resignation protests against the charges brought against him saying he and the troops have been loyal but under the circumstances (referring to American intervention) and though they would dearly like to fight, in order to prevent blood shed and to prove once more his love for Panama he resigns his office.

The Isthmians deplore the events because General Huertas modesty and reputation for not being ambitious had made him very popular.

ASSETS OF THE BURSTED BANK.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The comptroller of the currency today issued the following statement of the resources and liabilities of the Berlin National bank, of Berlin, Wis., which was closed yesterday, as shown by its report of September 6:

Resources, Loans and discounts $183,444; overdrafts $1,679; United States bonds $12,500; bonds, securities, etc. $43,304; banking houses $3,961; due from banks and bankers $6,615; cash and cash items $17,276; redemption fund $625; total $269,405. Liabilities—Capital stock $50,000; surplus and profits $3,836; circulation $12,500; due to banks and bankers $2,161; deposits $181,067; rediscounts $19,800; total $269,405.

SCHEME OF CHICAGO INSURANCE AGENTS FAILS.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Chicago insurance agencies are asking agents in Ohio to place application blanks in the hands of insurance seekers in Columbus for insurance in non-admitted companies, and offered to pay them a fee for this purpose. The forwarding of the application, would be equivalent, it was thought, to buying insurance in Illinois so not amenable to Ohio laws. The attorney general holds that this is soliciting insurance and therefore in violation of the Ohio laws, however.

CORREY TRANSFERRED.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Bishop James J. Hardly has transferred Father Thomas Correy, former Chaplain of St. Anthony's hospital, to a Whiteburg, Ohio, church.

He takes the place of Father James Hayahan, who has transferred to Athens, Father Mattingly, formerly of Athens, has been transferred to Logan, where he takes the place of Father Powers.

SIX

Men Rescued Who Had Floated In Open Boat

Eighteen Hours When Sighted. Their Vessel Was Wrecked in a Hurricane

When Three Hundred Miles From the Bermudas and the Men Were Almost Famished When Picked Up.

New York, Nov. 18.—After eighteen hours in an open boat, six men of the Philadelphia schooner Emily H. Naylor were rescued by the steamer Grenada which arrived here today.

The Naylor was abandoned about 300 miles from Bermuda after a hopeless struggle with the hurricane which pushed her to the coast last Sunday night. Her sails had been ripped away by the gale, her foreboom broken and water was pouring into her hold through the center board box when the crew got away in the life boat leaving all their personal effects behind. They had been drifting about for eighteen hours when sighted by the Grenada. Their hurried departure left no time to provision the life boat and the men were in desperate straits when they were taken aboard the Grenada.

The Naylor was under command of Captain John F. Wilson, and left New York in ballast, November 4. The schooner was off Hog Island, Va., when the storm struck her.

QUESTION HAS BEEN RAISED

As to the Date of the Resignation of Labor Commissioner Wright.

Washington, Nov. 18.—A question has been raised as to the date of the resignation of Commissioner Wright. The resignation was dated Nov. 12, last and accepted by the president the next day. Neither in the resignation nor in the acceptance was there any mention of time when the resignation should become operative. The commissioner's note was brief. He only said:

"With best regards I hereby tender this, my resignation."

Since the president's acceptance has been received the commissioner has continued to discharge the duties of the office until the present time and inquiry has developed the fact that it was his expectation to remain in office for some weeks yet. When the matter was brought to Mr. Wright today, he replied that he did not know that the question had been raised. "My intention," he said, "has been to remain in office until about the 1st of December, but I am not anxious to continue till then. My original wish was to get out immediately after my resignation."

HAD MANY FRIENDS AMONG THE GREAT MEN.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 18.—Word was received here today of the death of Dr. B. B. Fairfield, at Oberlin, Ohio. He was the second chancellor of the University of Nebraska, was formerly president of several colleges, Consul to France, under Cleveland, cousin of Stonewall Jackson, a close friend of Wendell Phillips and Henry Ward Beecher and one of the founders of the republican party. He lived at Hillsdale, Mich., when the party was organized and was president of Hillsdale College for twenty-one years.

MADE A SPECIAL ORDER.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—In the convention of the American Federation of Labor today an effort was made by Delegate Fold to bring before the delegates the conditions existing at Fall River, Mass., where a large number of textile workers are on strike. This was considered so important a question that it was made a special order for later in the day.

JEFFRIES AND JOHNSON WILL MEET IN RING.

San Francisco, Nov. 18.—The Call says that champion James J. Jeffries will meet Johnson the colored champion in the ring next March. It claims that the men have been signed up and have agreed upon the terms under which the battle will be fought.

WOODHOUSE

Representing the Russian Government

Told How Much the Episode Was Regretted

But the Practical Skipper Demanded That He and His Men Be Given a Substantial Money Recompense.

Hull, England, Nov. 18.—The board of trade inquiry into the actual occurrence of the Russian fishing boat, October 22, closed with yesterday's session and the commissioners will report to the board of trade on the subject as speedily as possible. At the opening of today's session the commissioners and others paid high tributes to the gallantry of the members of the fishing fleet. Dr. Woodhouse, representing the Russian government said he would like to say in behalf of those he represented how much they regretted what had occurred, and how he agreed with the remarks concerning the bravery of the fishermen. It would give the greatest pleasure to convey the purport of their remarks to the Russian government.

The skipper of the Gull claimed $250 for injury to his health and $10,000 for saving the lives of the crew of the Crane. Others claimed from $250 to $500.

FREIGHT STEAMER BURNED.

New York, Nov. 18.—The Central Vermont Railway's freight steamer Mohawk was burned off Horton's Point early today. The Mohawk's crew were taken off by the Fall River Line steamship and taken to Fall River, Mass.

LADIES' DAY AT HORSE SHOW.

New York, Nov. 18.—This being "Ladies Day" at the annual horse show a large crowd was early in attendance. More women are to participate than on any other day of the week. In this class the riders must appear in the uniform either of the regular army or of the national guard, and they are to carry sabers. The bright dresses of the women and the matted uniforms of the cavaliers made a brilliant spectacle which enlivened the garden more than during any previous day of the show.

PROMINENT JURIST DIED SUDDENLY TODAY.

New York, Nov. 18.—Judge Thomas A. Moran, of Chicago, died suddenly today at the Waldorf Astoria in this city. He was sixty-four years old. Judge Moran resigned from the bench in 1892, having previously served on the circuit court, Cook county, and the appellate court twelve years. After retirement from the bench he entered the practice of law as head of the firm of Moran, Kraus, Mayer and Stein. He was born at Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 7, 1839, was a graduate of the Albany, N. Y., law school of the class of 1865 and was afterwards given a degree of L. L. D. by several prominent colleges.

WILL NOT INTERFERE WITH COURT'S SENTENCE.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—Governor Herrick announced today that he would not interfere with the sentence of the court in the case of Olin Love-land, under sentence of death for complicity in the murder of George Grier, of Franklin county, on June 10, 1903, and now under sentence of death to be electrocuted next Friday morning. He announces that he finds no ground in the argument advanced upon which he can interfere.

TRAMPLED UNDER A TEAM.

New York, Nov. 18.—John G. Heckscher, secretary of the National Horse Show Association and father-in-law of Mayor McClellan, who was trampled under foot by a team exhibited in the ring by Mrs. Edward R. Ladew last night in Madison Square Garden, did not sustain serious injury. He was somewhat cut, one hand being lacerated and his shoulders were bruised, but fears that his spine was injured proved unfounded.

SECRETARY SHAW CALLS FOR DEPOSITS.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Secretary Shaw has announced a call upon the national banks holding government deposits to the amount of 25 per cent of their liabilities ten per cent to be paid on or before January 15 next and 15 per cent on or before March 15 next. This, the secretary estimates, will bring into the treasury about $25,000,000.

STEAMER IS BURNED

To the Water's Edge and the Faithful Watchman Lost His Life.

The Big Boiler Blew Up

Shortly After the Passengers and Crew Had Been Removed in Safety to the Deck of a Passing Steamship of Another Line.

New York, Nov. 18.—While bound down Long Island Sound on one of her regular passages between this city and New London, Conn., the freight steamer Mohawk, of the Central Vermont railroad took fire off Horton's Point, L. I., and burned to the water's edge early today. Her crew except the watchman were rescued by a passing steamship and taken to Fall River, Mass. It is believed the Mohawk will be a total loss and that none of her cargo will be saved.

The Mohawk left New York last evening with a full cargo of general merchandise. She had twenty-two persons on board including two women. As the steamer passed Horton's Point the light house keeper saw flames breaking from the boats and a few minutes later she was wrapped in flames.

Help was near at hand in the form of the Fall River line steamship Boston which had closely followed the Mohawk down the sound and those on board the burning ship with the one exception noted were soon taken off. The flames had passed beyond all control, however, and she was abandoned to her fate. A few moments after the Boston had removed her crew, there came an explosion, and a mass of blazing debris accompanied by a burst of flames shot up from the center of the abandoned freighter.

When dawn came the steamer was lying fast on the bar off Horton's Point and only a portion of her upper works showed above the surface. This gradually disappeared as the fire ate its way into the hull of the boat. The light house keeper was unable to make out the name of the abandoned steamer, and it was not until the rescued crew had reached Fall River that the name of the unfortunate craft was made known. At the same time it was learned that one life was lost by the burning of the steamer. A watchman who was on duty when the flames were discovered, failed to reach the Boston when she stood by to give assistance and it is supposed that he lost his life. Attempts to send assistance from shore to the burning steamer were unsuccessful. The rocky point life saving crew put out in a boat but were driven back by the intense heat. Later a volunteer crew from Peconic started out and stood by the burning bulk waiting for the fire to burn itself out.

The fire continued to smoulder during the forenoon and frequent explosions scattered burning embers and clouds of ashes over the water. The Mohawk was a comparatively new steamer having been built at Chester, Pa., in 1896. She was of 2150 net tons, 265 feet in length, 43 feet beam and 16.8 feet depth. The steamer Boston brought twenty-seven persons from the Mohawk, including twenty-two of the crew and two women, wives of officers of the Mohawk. The night watchman of the steamer, a Swede named Larsen, was lost. It is supposed he was burned to death. The captain of the Boston gave the following account of the disaster:

"The Boston came with the Mohawk at 1:15 this morning about a mile east of Cornfield lightship. The Mohawk was then about an hour's run from New London, her terminus for the east trip. The Mohawk was burning furiously forward. She signaled the Boston which ran up as close as possible and stood by and gave assistance. A boat containing two women and some members of the crew put out from the Mohawk almost immediately after the Boston's arrival and the two women were placed safely on board the Fall River line boat. The boat crew which had come to the Boston, put back at once. An hour later, driven by the spreading of the flames, the Mohawk's crew abandoned the burning vessel and reached the Boston in two boats. As they drew away it was seen that the Mohawk was ablaze from end to end and shortly after they had reached the Boston, a heavy explosion occurred on the Mohawk which lifted the deck. The smoke stacks flew upward, followed by a burst of flames and dense columns of black smoke. The flames leaped up to a great height and continued burning fiercely. It was apparent that no further purpose would be served if the Boston remained by, and she resumed her course for Fall River. The Mohawk's men said the fire was discovered by those in the pilot house shortly after midnight. It was pretty well forward and the crew were at once sent to their stations to fight the flames. The great heat, however, prevented them from getting close to the blaze which spread and steadily drove back those who opposed it until the entire vessel was doomed.

The Mohawk's cargo included nearly one thousand barrels of sugar, a large quantity of rags besides oil and gasoline. She was chartered by the Central Vermont Co. from the New London Steamboat Co. Those who were on board of her were unable to estimate her value or to approximate the value of her cargo.

BOTH WERE SHOT THROUGH THE HEAD.

Tragic Ending To an Unlawful Attachment Discovered by Detroit Police. Authorities Consider it Case of Murder and Suicide.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 18.—Two night policemen in Wyandotte, 12 miles down the river from Detroit, early today discovered a horse and buggy standing at the corner of Fourth and Oak streets with H. J. Hillebrand and Mrs. W. J. Miller, of Detroit, lying dead in the buggy. Both were shot through the head and it is believed by the authorities to be a clear case of murder and suicide. Whether Hillebrand or the woman fired the shots is unknown. A letter found on Hillebrand's person written him by the woman while he was in Chicago a short time ago told of an intimacy between the two and warned Hillebrand that he must be careful of her husband who she said had threatened to shoot him if he returned. Both bodies were slightly warm when taken to the undertakers soon after their discovery, indicating that the shooting took place a comparatively short time before they were found. Hillebrand was a bar keeper.

Miller had been married only a year and a half. Her husband says he believes her refusal to elope with Hillebrand caused him to shoot her and commit suicide. Miller says his wife told him that Hillebrand had threatened her life once before when she refused to accompany him to Chicago.

PARKER APPOINTED ON COMMISSION.

New York, Nov. 18.—Former Judge Alton B. Parker has been appointed a member of a commission to acquire dock and wharfage rights for the city on the East river. The appointment was made by Justice O'Gorman in the supreme court.

THE TRUCK DRIVER'S UNION JOINS STRIKE.

Picket Lines Established by Men and Several Factories Are in a State of Siege. Clash With Police.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The strike of furniture wagon drivers which led to street riots yesterday, spread today to other manufacturers of furniture in the Manufacturer's Association. Picket lines were established by the strikers and several factories were practically in a state of siege, the guarding unionists warning away drivers of lumber and coal wagons loaded with material and fuel for the beleaguered plants. The Truck Drivers' Union, the largest local organization of teamsters in the world, was drawn in

SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND HAVE

Been Raised With Which to Erect National Monument to President McKinley.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—Announcement was made today of the completion of the fund of $600,000 for the erection of a national monument to the late President McKinley. Alexander H. Revell, chairman of the Illinois state auxiliary of the McKinley National Memorial Association in a report submitted to the state committee stated that $50,000, the proportion allotted to Illinois had been raised. In New York next Tuesday the national trustees of the association will meet and adopt a design for the monument.

PRICES IN STRUCTURAL STEEL ARE MAINTAINED.

New York, Nov. 18.—An official statement was given out today regarding the several steel meetings held yesterday. Prices on structural steel were maintained. No action was taken on steel plates, and the steel plate association will meet again about the middle of December. On steel bars and rails no action was taken.

WILL VISIT SONS.

Springfield, O., Nov. 18.—Vice President-elect Charles W. Fairbanks, and Mrs. Fairbanks left here this forenoon for New Haven, Conn., to visit their sons Richard and Robert who are college students.

DEED Of Assignment Has Been Made By Directors Of the Savings Bank and Trust Company. Application Is Now Made For the Discharge of Receiver Quail.

James W. Davis Is Named As the Assignee and Has Given Bond
In the Sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars.

Another chapter in the South Side bank failure has been opened by assignment proceedings which were inaugurated yesterday afternoon and the filing today of an application for the discharge of receiver George H. Quail. The new status of affairs was instituted by a majority of the directors of the institution who held a called meeting at the offices of Attorneys Ridenour & Halfhill about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with about four-fifths of the capital stock of the corporation represented.

James W. Davis, who was perhaps the heaviest individual depositor in the bank, was designated by the directors as the assignee of the institution and he qualified by filing a bond in the sum of $50,000 in probate court. The deed of assignment made and delivered to Mr. Davis for all of the property of the bank, was also filed in probate court and papers were issued in legal form authorizing him to administer the bank estate for the benefit of all the creditors.

The application for the discharge of the receiver of the bank was formally filed at the court house this morning with a request that the court direct the receiver to turn over all of the properties and accounts of the bank to Mr. Davis.

The attorneys representing those of the directors who demanded the making of an assignment claim that the cost of the legal procedure for an assignment and the adjustment of the affairs of the bank by an assignee will be much less than that of a receivership and state that had the assignment not been made the stockholders and depositors who were dissatisfied with the receivership, would have gone into court with an application for the appointment of a co-receiver.

COLUMBUS AND RETURN $1.00. From Wapakoneta, next Sunday via Ohio Central lines.

That awful grinding, stabbing pain in the back is from the kidneys. A dose of Pinetone will cure it over night. Pinetone is a new discovery put up in a new way. A delightful remedy and specific for all kidney and bladder troubles. H. F. Vorkamp druggist.

QUESTION OF PUBLICATION.

Columbus Journal Enjoins Awarding of Contract in Dispatch Because It Is Independent.

Columbus, O., Nov. 18.—The provision in the municipal code that ordinances and resolutions of council are to be printed in two papers "of opposite politics" is to go to the courts for interpretation as a result of council's action in awarding a contract to the Columbus Dispatch. It awarded one contract to the Press Post, a democratic paper. Republicans of the Dispatch which claims to be independent, claim that it was opposite in politics to the Press Post having supported republican candidates in the recent campaign and they secured the other contract. The State Journal, the only republican paper here will contest the award and enforce the contract.

W. A. Herren, of Finch, Ark., says "I wish to report that Foley's Kidney Cure has cured a terrible case of kidney and bladder trouble that two doctors had given up." H. F. Vorkamp and Wm. Melville.

ALL THREE OF THEM WENT OUT.

Williamsburg, Nov. 18.—Geo. Curd and Emma Durham have been killed and Thomas Curd fatally wounded near Cumberland Falls. The Curd brothers owned a large tract of land and had no trouble with squatters. As they were passing the cabin where the Durham woman lived, they were fired upon. Thomas crawled three miles to his home and George was dead when found. The Durham woman was probably killed and burned to cover identity. The shooting occurred from her house.

Buttercups And Daisies

By Kate M. Cleary
Copyright, 1904, by Kate M. Cleary

Jocelyn glanced at the tiny clock on her dresser.

"Seven ten," she said. "I'll have time to answer that letter after I get the dishes washed."

Her task was accomplished with brisk dexterity. To be sure, there were not many dishes to be washed—one cup, one saucer, one spoon, one plate, one knife, one fork.

"Quite an old maid's outfit!" she said, with a little grimace as she rinsed out the diminutive teapot and set it on the shelf with the china. "Now to tell Ned, dear old Ned, that—that—"

She read Edward Ford's letter through again, as though seeking some suggestion as to the most delicate and decisive manner in which she could decline his proposal.

It was a charming letter—simple, manly and straightforward. He loved her—he had always loved her. She must know that. There never could be another girl for him. There never could be while life lasted, whether she made him happy or bade him wait or—

She read Edward Ford's letter through again, as though seeking some suggestion as to the most delicate and decisive manner in which she could decline his proposal.

The girl, sitting at the window of the lodging house, looked out at the dirty Nottingham lace curtains of the lodging house across the street and then afar over a wilderness of irregular brick walls and smoking chimneys with eyes grown suddenly wistful.

How she hated it all! Even if she could keep this fresh and dainty—this tiny room she called her own!

Maplewood! The big, comfortable country house, set back in rich orchard lands! She used to laugh at the quaint, prim, low ceiled rooms, with their air of rigid order, of sedateness. Now she fancied them as a sweet, cool refuge. If there were only some fresh swisses and silkline draperies around, and magazines and a lot of light, cretonne pillows, what an ideal home it would be! She would do the dining room in yellow, as it was on the north side of the house, and—

The clanging clang of a fire engine passing in the street below startled her from her reveries. She straightened up, with a little jerk and glanced around the shabby little room, with the crude paper, the aggressive carpet, the cheap pine furniture, and her trunk in the corner. It was here she was going to remain—here, she had no intention of marrying Ned Ford. So she hastily dipped her pen in the ink bottle on the window sill, steadied her portfolio on her knee and began to write:

Dear Ned—I have your letter, and I'm sorry, sorry, so sorry you wrote it! Not that I don't want you to be fond of me. I do. It seems sometimes as if I'm millions of miles away from every one who ever cared a pin for me. But it isn't any use your loving me—that way. Don't think there's any one else. There isn't. Two men have asked me the same question since I've been earning my living in town. But I couldn't care for either the slightest bit. And I do care for you—only not in the way I ought to—

She shot a look at the little clock—jumped to her feet.

"Seven ten, still!" She grabbed her hat, hastily put it on, adjusted her veil with a glance at the pretty, pale face that looked back at her from the glass with quite a frightened expression, and caught up her gloves.

"Mercy! I must have forgotten to wind the clock. I was so tired last night. I'll be late as sure as fate!"

The cars were crowded, and she had to stand all the way to the store. She was late and was not only docked, but received a reprimand from the head of the department. There was a convention of some sort in town, and the great establishment was thronged with sight-seers and shoppers. The heat of the sultry warmth, the worry over the episode of the morning and the incessant demands upon her attention a splitting headache began to torture the girl. She found it hard to retain her usual calm courtesy of manner when a fashionably dressed woman upon whom she had been waiting announced loudly and with a suspicious glance in her direction that she had missed her pocketbook.

"I had it a moment ago. I just laid it down here!" she explained to the floorwalker who had hurried up. "This pocketbook was waiting on me!"

"It may have been taken to the lost and found department. If you don't come with me, madam."

She reluctantly accompanied him. And when a few minutes later she re-passed the counter carrying her re-laid property the look she saw Jocelyn Duane was as vindictive as though she still harbored doubt of her innocence.

"Pleasant life, this!" the girl murmured. Being independent was not all it was cracked up to be she was deciding when a gentle voice spoke.

"Gloves—Gloves—"

"Yes, madam! What shade do you prefer?"

"Goodness," cried the new customer, "if it isn't Jocelyn Duane!"

A plump little woman, looking a little like a baby, sat beside the counter. The wholesome tan of the country was on her cheek and the joy of living shone in her soft brown eyes.

"What, Mary Andrews?" Jocelyn greeted her gleefully. "It does seem good to see you from Maplewood. I heard you were married soon after I left. And this is your child? What a darling!"

"Isn't he?" said the mother proudly. "John thinks there never was such a boy. He came up to the convention, and of course we had to come along. You look awfully stylish, Jocelyn—and pretty. You're prettier than ever. But—my, you're thin!"

"How is every one at Maplewood?" Jocelyn asked hastily, busying herself with the gloves.

"Blossoms—all that are left. We've had some deaths, you know. Poor Mrs. Ford is gone. They do say that Ellie Moore would willingly be mistress of Ned's fine old house now!"

"Ellie Moore?" repeated Jocelyn. She flushed hotly. There was a queer ache in her throat. What right had Ellie Moore—or any other girl—

"She's a rich girl and not bad looking! Tan, please! How green it seems to be burning gloves from you! You those will do. I must hurry. This young man is getting impatient. I suppose you'll never condescend to come to Maplewood again, Jocelyn?"

Jocelyn laughed in a sudden, breathless, happy fashion.

"Perhaps I shall," she said.

When she opened the door of her ugly little room that evening a miracle of loveliness met her gaze. In the pitcher on the window sill was an immense bunch of daisies and buttercups—a blaze of snow and gold.

"A splendid looking young gentleman brought them," the maid said when questioned. "He said I was to put them in water in your room. And he left a card with writing on it."

Jocelyn's tired face glowed as she read the penciled lines:

I couldn't bear to read your answer. I followed my letter in person. Will call at 8 this evening.

Jocelyn went to her portfolio, took out a half written sheet of note paper and tore it into minute pieces. Then she knelt down by the window and laid her hot cheek against the cool velvet of the flowers. And all the dull, monotonous, dreary present fell away from her. She was not an independent young working woman. She was a happy girl again among the fields at home—loved, admired, protected.

Such magic had they wrought!

And when she dressed herself in her prettiest gown of blue and silver it was a girl with starry eyes and rosy cheeks who smiled proudly back at her from the mirror.

"Ellie Moore," she said—"Ellie Moore, indeed! The very ideal!"

She looked so radiant and so lofty when she swept into the parlor that the stalwart young fellow striding across the room to meet her felt his heart sink.

"Jocelyn," he said, "I've come for my answer."

She smiled tenderly and touched the blooms thrust in her belt.

"Oh, Jocelyn," he whispered, his eyes kindling. "Oh, Jocelyn—dearest!"

The Worst Wind of the World.

"What is the worst wind of the world?" said the captain of a trading ship that pokes her nose in almost every spot of the world during her curious wanderings. "Well, I'll tell you first of other winds, so as to lead up to it artistically. I've been through a Kamehameha, which is what they call the storms of that country, and I've seen it blow drifts fifty feet high in an hour. I put in three days in a typhoon, when the sea was grand-fathered of the hurricane. It blew every sail out of the boat ropes and swept the deck so clean that it looked as if it had been scraped. Down in St. Vincent, in the West Indies, I lay on the beach during a West Indian hurricane, the black storm that sweeps over the Caribbean, and I had to dig my hands into the earth to hold tight.

"But worse than all these is the wind that they call the willy, or the willy willy, according to locality. You get it at its best in the strait of Magellan, but a great part of the country around the southern end of the South American continent enjoys its blessings."—New York Press.

Couldn't Find It.

A young man having evolved what he considered a good joke forwarded it to a comic paper, but received no answer. In despair of ascertaining the fate of his contribution he sent the editor the following letter:

Sir—I have carefully read your paper for the last month, but call to find any trace of the joke I sent you on the 5th ult.

In due course he received this reply:

Sir—in reply to your letter, I deeply sympathize with you, for, since I received your MS. on the 5th ult. I have carefully read it several times, but up to date I, too, have failed to find any trace of the joke referred to.

Becher and the Medium.

While in England Henry Ward Beecher was entertained by a gentleman who believed in spiritualism and was himself a medium. One day he asked if Beecher would like to talk with the spirit of his father. Dr. Lyman Beecher. Mr. Beecher replied that it would please him immensely. After the séance was over he was asked how a man impressed him, at which, with a twinkle in his eye, Beecher responded, "All I have to say is that if I deteriorate as fast for the first ten years after I am dead as my father has I shall be a stark raved fool!"

THE SHADOWER

(Original.)
"Captain," said the general, "here is a dispatch of importance which I wish you to deliver at once to General Taylor. I do not think there are any Mexicans in the region between our two separate forces, but there may be. You can either take an escort or scout your way alone."

Captain Allen Duane paled. His general looked at his aide-camp curiously, wondering, for he knew him to be a brave man, then asked, "Which course will you adopt?"

"I shall scout through alone."

As if the captain had chased away a disagreeable suspicion as to his courage, the general turned complacently to other matters.

What was it that caused the color to momentarily leave the cheek of the young officer at being ordered upon an ordinary duty? He did not know himself. He only knew that some vague message had come to him to tell him that this would be to him a night of what? He did not know. More in fear of cowardice than danger, he shook off the disagreeable impression, which melted before his resolution like mist before the sun.

Adhering to the scouts, he left his horse and moved away into the desolate land held by neither American nor Mexican. A young moon shone down on his shoulder, casting a faint shadow to his left and to his rear. It annoyed him. Turning to glance at it, he could not refrain from a fancy that a figure was following him. Looking straight ahead, he fixed his gaze on the plain, over which here and there grew scattered clumps of tropical trees.

It was lonely out there on that desolate plain where the poorest Mexican disinclined to build even an adobe hut. The vipers with which the country abounded had crawled into their holes; the few birds were hidden, silent in the branches of the trees. It seemed to him that even the melancholy cry of a whippoorwill, with which he had long been familiar in the north, would sound conspicuous. There were only the plain, the trees, the moon and the sky, over which floated small clouds with dark bodies and fleecy borders.

Despite his efforts to drive away the impression that his shadow was some one following him this impression grew stronger. Turning again, he cast a quick glance behind. There was the shadow as before. Raising his eyes to the sky, he shuddered. The moon was behind a cloud.

It was now clear to Captain Duane that the mysterious follower was not his shadow. What was it? If a human enemy it would have long before this shot or knifed him in the back. If a friend, why did it not declare itself? And why did he not hear his tread? He listened, but by the closest attention he could not detect a footstep. And why, he asked himself, did he, a soldier who had been twice breveted for bravery, shrink from turning and confronting this mysterious figure of shadow?

By an effort he gathered strength to turn his head for one more glance. There was the figure, more distinct than before, yet not continuously so. It seemed to Captain Duane that his eyesight was not capable of holding the image long enough to see exactly what it was. Now, for an instant, the head and shoulders would keep their form—the face hony, with deep sunken eyes—a broad, prominent mouth. Then the legs, long thin ones, would be tramping with one uninterrupted, unchained gait, the whole covered by a long flowing mantle which fluttered in the wind, yet there was no wind.

Desperate, the officer halted and faced about.

"Who comes there?" he cried.

The words broke the stillness like a clap of thunder from a serene sky. There was in them a singular distress, as if they had been for ages asking a question to which there had come no reply. The figure stopped, standing, waiting, as though neither impatient nor tired, confident that the object of its attention would move on and it would again follow.

The young captain did move on. Though his physical strength was unimpaired, it seemed to him that his soul was lagging, that it was slowly but surely slipping away from him. He was as ready to meet an accuser, enemy and fight as bravely as ever. As Captain Allen Duane he was still independent; as a human soul he was losing himself.

And now there in the distance is something white. He shades his eyes from every ray of moonlight and discovers white tents. He is nearing the end of his mission. A few more miles and he will be with the picked line of friends behind him. Will this shadowy stranger remain behind?

Captain Duane pushed on. The inequalities of the road were no obstacles. He took no thought at running upon some roving band of Mexicans. The mysterious figure was closing up on him. At last it came so close that he could almost feel its breath, like the moldy chill from a tomb.

"Who comes there?" called the picket.

Why did not Captain Duane reply. "Friend with the counterpane?" Was he dazed? Did he not hear? At that moment the shadowy follower towering above him bent and touched him on the shoulder. There was the crack of a rifle. The specter opened his arms, and the soldier as he fell was caught in the folded mantle. The follower was Death.

In the morning a body was seen lying without General Taylor's picket line. The officer of the picket went out and found an aide-camp on whose person was an important message. The picket had shot a friend.

MILWAUKEE NEWSPAPER CASE.

Chicago Record Herald—Important points of constitutional law were involved in the Milwaukee "newspaper boycott case" just decided by the supreme court of the United States. That the case was "close," to use the lawyers' term, may be inferred from the fact that of its own motion the court had ordered it reargued after a considerable interval following the first and exhaustive presentation of it by both sides.

Three Milwaukee Newspapers, The Sentinel, The News and The Evening Wisconsin, in view of an increase of advertising rates by The Journal of the same city, had entered into an agreement providing that no advertiser paying the higher rates charged by their common competitor should be permitted to use their space except at a corresponding increase of rates, while those who refused to pay The Journal's new rates, should have the privilege of advertising in their columns at the regular rates. This agreement was successfully attacked in the courts of Wisconsin as a conspiracy wilfully and maliciously to injure the Journal Publishing company and as a violation of the anti-trust law of the state, and an appeal to the federal supreme court was taken under the fourteen amendment of the Constitution.

The Wisconsin statute on which the original information relied prohibits combinations and agreements wilfully or maliciously to injure or interfere with anyone in the exercise of his lawful business. It was strenuously urged by counsel for plaintiff in error that a statute which penalizes action amounting to a wilful interference, whether malicious or not, with a citizen's trade is invalid as an attempt to deprive persons of property or liberty without due process of law. It was further contended that this agreement in question imposed no restraint of trade, since "advertising is not trade, but merely a means of fostering trade."

The whole difficult subject of criminal conspiracy was thoroughly covered in the briefs and arguments.

It appears that the supreme court has sustained the Wisconsin anti-conspiracy statute so far as it applies to this case. It is decided in effect that the prohibition by legislation of combinations and agreements wilfully to injure or interfere with the business or property of persons, even where no malice is present and where the purpose is to attract patronage or trade at the expense of the person injured or interfered with, is not contrary to the intent and spirit of the fourteenth amendment. The full text of the opinion should make instructive and profitable reading.

Jolly Twelve Club Enjoyed AnotherOf Their Social Events at the Mack Home on West
Kibby Street.Sherrick Nazor. Wedding, Guild
Boys Hustling, Personal and Local Items Condensed and Classified. Notes.

Yesterday afternoon a disgraceful fight occurred on south Main street, between two boys of about 14 years of age. The trouble started in front of the Pelligrini place near Kibby street, and before the running fight was finished the contestants were in the rear of the Williams block. Knives were used as weapons, and it is a miracle that both lads were not seriously injured, but beyond a few small cuts, bad language, and threats, the ending was fortunate. Several loafers, old enough to be called men, followed the boys and taunted them to battle, and should there be arrests made they should be made to suffer, as well as the fighters.

Social Event.

The meeting of the Jolly Twelve Club at the John Mack home, on west Kibby street, yesterday afternoon, was a most enjoyable affair, and the usual social pastimes were heartily indulged in. A delightful 4 o'clock dinner was served, and the guests were also favored with piano music and song by Miss Lillian Mack and Mrs. Rose Pink.

The club guests were Mrs. McFall, of Paulding; Mrs. Marshall, Mrs. Herlick, Mrs. Rambo and Miss Alto Osburn.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Myers, at 212 north Washington street.

Guild Doings.

The boys of the Guild Society are already planning for an outing next summer, and each lad who joins the society in the next few days may enjoy the camp privileges free of charge. Besides this inducement, there is a reading room and library in connection with the society, and other enjoyable features. There is only room for a few more, as the camp number is limited. First come, first served. If you know of any boys who desire to join the society, take their names to Premiss Lawrence, of Greenlawn avenue, this evening. Several boys will be initiated this evening.

Afternoon Wedding.

Yesterday morning, O. E. Sherrick, son of L. E. & W. Sherrick, and Miss Maud Nazor, daughter of Mrs. W. V. Nazor, of south Elizabeth street, went to Leipsic, to the home of Rev. W. J. Hagerman, and shortly after the noon hour were married by that divine. Mr. and Mrs. Sherrick are spending their honeymoon in Buffalo, N. Y. They will live at 716 south Elizabeth street.

Rabbit Chase.

After passing a very restless night, his slumbers broken with visions of how he chased the jack rabbits over the plains of Arkansas, picture of a quail flying all around him, George Huss armed himself with a couple of onions, a head of cabbage and a club this morning and started in search of game in the neighborhood of Harrod. The five laddies are preparing for a feast, should George be successful.

Two ladies, Pearl and Ella, captured a scared and harmless bunny on south Central avenue yesterday, after chasing it through Shockey's lane and the Mulligan alley. Neighbors enjoyed the fun as well as the ladies.

Overrun With Bums.

South Lima was overrun with the tramp, variety of humanity this morning, and most anywhere one chanced to look, could be seen a bum pan-handling coin, snooting snipe or scratching. One big 6-foot 220-pound individual claimed to be the victim of walking typhoid fever, as an excuse for begging, but his breath suggested an attack of corn juice catarrh.

Briefly Told News Items.

Goddie Young was arrested again last night; this time for being an inmate of the Whiffler resort on north Pine street.

Rev. Stump, of Findlay, will talk at the Gospel tabernacle, south of the bridge on Main street, this evening.

THE MARKETS.

New York, Nov. 18.—Extensive trading in sugar, Amalgamated Copper and Chesapeake & Ohio was the feature of the opening stock market today, but there were large gains also at other points of the list. The dealings in the three principal stocks were in blocks of a thousand to six thousand shares. Sugar fluctuated widely over a range of a point at an extreme advance of 2½. Amalgamated Copper's extreme rise was ¾, as was that in Chesapeake & Ohio. Making gold rose 1½; New York, Chicago and St. Louis and Chicago and Alton a point and Locomotive, Colorado Fuel, U. S. Steel and Brooklyn Transit and Smelting a point. There was a jump of 2½ in Vulcan D Tinning.

The whole list gave way in the final hour, carrying stocks to the lowest of the day. St. Paul's gain was changed to a loss of 1½ and the gains in prominent stocks were generally cancelled. Southern Pac., Louisville & Nashville, Hoeking Valley, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste Marie, Illinois Central, Norfolk and Western, Realty, Manhattan, Metropolitan Securities and Colorado Fuel fell 1 to 1½ below last night and Delaware & Hudson 2. There were two point gains for Leoco motive and Republic Steel and 1 for Wells Fargo Express. The closing was active and weak.

RAISING EGRETS FOR PLUMAGE.

The beautiful egrettes known to milliners as "osprey" plumes do not come off the bird popularly known as the osprey. This is a large brown and white fishing hawk, persecuted indeed to the death by the collector of "Brittish specimens," but not in the cause of fashion, since it has no remarkable plumage to excite cupid.

The plumes sold under this name are the trousseau of several species of white herons—a wedding garment worn by both bride and groom, and they were originally called by the French name, "esprit." Mispronunciation and the knowledge that there is a bird called osprey, have given us the present title. Of course the objection to their use is the fact that the birds are killed in the breeding season, the young being left to starve; but by keeping the birds in captivity all this could be avoided as they could be caught and shorn much easier than sheep.

There are several species of egrettes in these white plume-bearing herons are called, but one seems more suitable than any of the others for artificial culture. This is the biggest of all, the large egret (Herodias alba). It is found practically all over the world, for although some ornithologists divide into two or three species, the differences are not of any practical importance. It is about as tall as our common heron, but even more long and slender in shape, and its breeding plumage is in the form of one thick bunch of very long plumes, growing from its back.

This species being able to live in both hot and temperate climates would thrive either here or in our colonies, and being of a size to protect itself against any ordinary vermin has obvious advantages as a domestic bird. It is, moreover, very long lived. Young birds should be procured to start with, as old ones would probably bear captivity with a very bad grace like the common heron, which is apt to refuse food when captured adult. Our may be found in a nest, and they might be expected to bear markable plumes in the year after capture.

The best way to keep them would be to clip the long quills of one wing and turn them out in an inclosure surrounded by a six-foot fence of the rail, Norfolk and Western, Realty, Manhattan, Metropolitan Securities and Colorado Fuel fell 1 to 1½ below last night and Delaware & Hudson 2. There were two point gains for Leoco motive and Republic Steel and 1 for Wells Fargo Express. The closing was active and weak.

Once they were got to breed, some selection could be attempted in order to produce birds with the most abundant plumes, the most accommodating appetites and the best tempers and constitutions; in fact, the species could be thoroughly domesticated and, of course, there would be a profit selling birds for stock.—London Express.

Washington, Nov. 18.—Consul General Fowler has cabled the state department from Chefoo that the situation at Port Arthur is extremely critical, the outer forts having fallen in to the possession of the Japanese. He also reports that three Japanese torpedo boat destroyers are lying outside of Chefoo harbor and that the crews of the Russian torpedo boat destroyer sunk several days ago, are transferring their arms to a Chinese cruiser placed in front of the Russian consulate.

HE KNEW.

Captain Ingersoll, of the naval war college, was talking about the disaster that came near to destroying the battleship Connecticut at her launching.

"What do you think about this busness, sir?" a reporter said.

"It was unexpected," said Captain Ingersoll. "That is all I can say—that it was unexpected. As unexpected, in fact"—and Captain Ingersoll smiled—"as the report that the poor man made to his rich wife."

"This poor man, being handsome, chose an elderly and plain heiress for his bride. He was on the verge of ruin at the time, living in a $4 boarding house, and behind-hand in his payments even there. Nevertheless the heiress married him, and soon he was driving a four-in-hand and winning races with a motor boat."

"But he was ungrateful. Husbands like him nearly always are ungrateful. And on account of his ingratitude there were a good many quarrels between his rich wife and himself."

"One day, enraged beyond measure, she said, bitterly:

"What would you be now if it wasn't for my money?"

"The man laughed."

"A bachelor," he replied."—Kansas City Journal.

A FIGHTING EDITOR.

Colonel Dan Anthony, Who Was Shot, Carved and Beaten.

(New York World.)

That a man who had been cowardly, beaten, shot full of holes, carved by bowie knives and "left for dead" should die at 80 in bed was the late Colonel Dan Anthony's way of illustrating "life's little ironies."

Anthony, a brother of Susan B., was a Kansas editor. He went to the state 50 years ago, when it was one big fighting field. Once his paper, the Leavenworth Times, bitterly assailed a local editor. The men met on the street, pistols drawn. Afterward people came from behind the rees and picked Anthony up. His torso was cut; and as no one had been survived that wound—or so it was thought—the doctor said he would die soon. The bitter cold of winter checked the flow of blood, however, and he was put to bed.

After a short sleep Anthony woke to ask the nurse what time it was. "Six," she replied.

"Say, that's a good joke on 'Doc,'" chuckled the editor. "He said I'd be dead by 5:30."

Once, in 1875, a rival editor, Mr. Mabry, "shot Anthony up." He hove on the treatment. During the war he was knifed while trying to rescue a slave, but lived. As Mayor of Leavenworth, years ago, he was a favorite target for the turbulent. Bowldings and beatings with heavy axes were incidents.

Anthony's last encounter was in 1899, when he was 76 years old. Ex-Sheriff Bond, a giant in stature, helped by another man, got the old editor down and beat him and stomped upon him. He drew a revolver, but the friend saved Bond by knocking the weapon up. Anthony recovered. "I'm going to die of disease or old age," he said.

Anthony wasn't always bloodthirsty. An actor, angered by Kansas criticism sent to his office one day to "lick the editor." He turned the hose on the visitor and went back to his desk. Once he was arrested for carrying a revolver wrapped up in paper. The lethal weapon turned out to be a piece of lead pipe bent pistol-shape—not a bad defensive weapon.

Cautiously enough, Anthony wasn't a cool shot. He never killed any one but a man named Satterlee. Once a gang of some 15 men opened fire on him, and he emptied two six-shooters in their direction. "Upon my honor," he said, "I never touched a man. I concluded that bricks were much more deadly weapons than pistols."

A POLICEMAN'S TESTIMONY.

J. N. Patterson, night policeman of Nashua, Ia., writes, "Last winter I had a bad cold on my lungs and tried at least half dozen advertised cough medicines and had treatment from two physicians without getting any benefit. A friend recommended Dr. King's Honey and Tar and two thirds of a bottle cured me. I consider it the greatest cough and lung medicine in the world."

The Exact Thing Required for Constipation.

"As a certain purgative and stomach purifier Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets seem to be the exact thing required, strong enough for the most robust, yet mild enough and safe for children and without that terrible griping so common to most purgatives," says R. S. Webster & Co., Ulora, Ontario, Canada. For sale by all druggists.

Dec's Honey and Tar is different from all other remedies offered for the relief of cough, lung and bronchial troubles. It contains antiseptic properties that destroy the germs, and solvent properties that cut the phlegm allowing it to be thrown off, moves the bowels gently. Cures croup, whooping cough and colds in one night. H. F. Vortkamp, druggist.

WEATHER.

Washington, Nov. 18.—For Ohio:

portion tonight and Saturday.

THE PARSON COULD SHOOT.

Rev. Dr. Ken. C. Hayes, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Cambridge, O., and for 15 years pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, is visiting Meadville friends at present. The following story concerning Dr. Hayes has been told out:

When the genial minister left Meadville and settled in the Buckeye state, his new parishioners supposed that he had always lived in a city and had never handled firearms: that he knew nothing concerning animals or birds,
and that a joke could be perpetrated upon the new preacher.

One day Dr. Hayes was invited by some of the elders to go squirrel hunting and he accepted the invitation. He was kindly shown how to load his gun and was also informed that the squirrels in Ohio were as large as foxes, and when wounded would attack the hunter. The hunters became separated in the woods, and Dr. Hayes espied a red fox. He drew a bead on Reynard and he "bit the dust." Dr. Hayes's companions, hearing the report of the gun, rushed to the scene, fearing that the sportsman had met with an accident.
Dr. Hayes held up the dead fox by the tail and said: "Don't get excited gentlemen. I have only shot one of your big Ohio squirrels, and you will do well to look out as there may be another one up in that tree and he may jump!"

The men who had picked up Dr.
Hayes as a novice in sportsmanship were forced to acknowledge that the laugh was on them.—Meadville Tribune.

One Prisoner Pleads Guilty and Re-

Mills Returns From Urbana.

At 1 o'clock this morning, Night
Sergeant Bacome, Detective Fenstermaker and Patrolmen Heffern, Kelly and Jackson, accompanied by two newspaper sleuths, called at a house opposite the school building on north Pine street, and the officers disturbed the slumbers of all the inmates—two women, two men and two children.
Mrs. Whiffer who was occupying a room on the second floor with a married man named John B. Thomas, was arrested on two charges, adultery
and conducting a disorderly resort,
and Thomas was taken into custody
on the charge of adultery.

Goldie Young, a young woman, who was found alone in a room in the rear part of the house, was locked up on a charge of being an improper character, and Lew Berry, a colored man who was found asleep in a front room was locked up on the charge of residing in a disorderly house. Thomas pleaded guilty when arraigned in Mayor's court this morning and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 and costs and to serve 60 days imprisonment in the county jail. The other three cases were taken up at 3 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Whiffer was not locked up, being permitted to remain at home with her two children.

here for having secured endorsements and the money on three worthless checks drawn on a Piqua bank for a

the checks endorsed by proprietor
Jones of the "Smoke House." Chief Mills did not bring the man back with now taking a jag cure and could not be moved. The matter will probably be adjusted by some of Benkert's re-

Wife of Prominent Physician After His Death Discovers His Double Life.

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 18.—Death has revealed an extraordinary case of double life led by Dr. T. C. Conklin, a prominent physician at Farmington, who died November 8. When the wife with whom he was living at the time of his death went to Lewiston, Fulton county, to have herself appointed administratrix to his estate, she found records showing that many years ago her husband had been married to a Miss Steele, and that the first wife and four children of that union still live. The children of the first wife will make a fight for the estate which amounts to about $10,000.
Dr. Conklin has two children by his second wife. Dr. Conklin, during all his life in Farmington afforded pecuniary assistance to his children and to his first wife who lived in this city.

A MYSTERY OF THE SEA

(Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure.)
What was known as the "Lone Ship" mystery occurred in the year 1854.

An English merchantman named the White Knight, homeward bound from the Cape to Liverpool, was jogging along to the north of the Azores one night when she overtook and passed up unknown craft. It was a starlight night without the slightest sign of mist rising from the water. The unknown had no lights out and was passing within a hundred feet. The chief mate had the watch and bawled her, but got no answer in return. He was cursing her carelessness in sailing the highway without a light when the unknown came sailing in his wake and took up a position on the starboard quarter and only a stone's throw away. She was hailed a dozen times over, but made no answer.

Only one single person could be seen aboard, and he was the man at the wheel. His figure was without motion except what the tossing of the ship imparted to it. He stood there clear enough under the naked eye, but the glass brought him closer still.

For an hour the strange ship held a parallel course to that of the merchantman, and the crew of the latter got a bad fright over it. The breeze held steadily, and during one minute
the unknown craft and her solitary man were in full view of fifteen men.
The next she had vanished off the face of the sea, leaving everybody to rub
his eyes and stare.

It was three months before the "Lone Ship" was seen again. An American ship bound from New York to Bordeaux had left the Azores well to the south and behind her when one day at noon the breeze left her and there fell a dead calm. The sea soon went down until there was only a glassy ground swell, and when night came on there was not a sail in sight.
At midnight the moon rose, and so bright was its light that one could have read a book on deck.

Half an hour later, without enough air stirring to move a feather, a strange craft came slowly into view from the east and when first discovered was only about two miles away.
She was bows on at first, but when within half a mile of the American she swung around and showed her broadside and ceased her drift. The second mate had the watch, having come on at midnight, and after puzzling for a few minutes he called the captain. Captain and mate united their voices in a hail which was not answered, and then a musket was brought up and fired three times without eliciting any reply.

The American captain was a hard headed fellow, with no superstition in his composition. He took a boat and two men—no others of his crew would go with him—and pulled to the ship.
The log book said of their adventure:
"When we had approached within a few feet of the 'Lone Ship,' I ordered the men to cease rowing that I might look her over. She had no name painted on her stern or quarter.

"We rowed twice around her, hailing several times without result, and then I ordered the men to row under her bows that I might climb up by her chains. They lunged in the wind and would have refused had I not menaced them with the revolver I had brought along in my pocket.

"As I climbed up I ordered one of them to follow me and was presently taking a view of the stranger's decks.
I counted ten objects lying about which I verily believed were dead men wrapped up in blankets, though for reasons shortly to be given I could not make sure of this. The decks were not badly littered up, though in the moonlight I could see that they had not been cleared for months.

"I was ready to go aft and was waiting for the man when I heard the splash of oars and turned to discover that the cowards were making off. I menaced them with the pistol, but they would return no nearer than fifty feet,
and I had to leap into the sea to swim that distance. The men feared the strange craft both as a ghost ship and a plague ship, and nothing I could say would change their opinion. My own belief is that all her crew were dead of some fell disease, but yet I should have liked to make sure by investigation. They had been too long dead for me to fear infection."

"The 'Lone Ship' was seen once more and for the last time about a month later. An English man-of-war was sent out to look for her, and after a cruise of two weeks back and forth without sighting her the government craft found herself becalmed one night midway between the Azores and the Madeiras.

At half past 11 o'clock the "Lone Ship" was discovered, appearing of a sudden within half a mile of the man-of-war. Ten minutes after sighting her the captain had two boats in the water, and the officer in command had orders to board the derelict and overhaul every foot of her. Away went the boats, but they never reached her.

At a point about midway the men saw the "Lone Ship" suddenly settle down, and two minutes later her top-sails were disappearing beneath the surface. Some bits of wreckage were picked up and preserved, but nothing that could identify her, and to this day
her name, port of call and the fate that made her a derelict are matters of conjecture.

I have always held that she was a foreigner and that her crew died to a man of some terrible epidemic, but as to her mysterious appearances and disappearances and the nature of the incident that finally sent her to the bottom I have no theories to advance.

GLOBE SIGHTS.

If excitement excites you, keep out.
We must all have some one to blow
our money on.

Old age can dye its whiskers, but old age can't look young.
Too many people have habit of going with their bristles up.

When some men are introduced they think they have to tell a story.

Which would you rather people would do: Cuss or look grumpy?
The successful business man is one who knows what people will not do.

The girl is thinking of marriage long before it has entered the man's head.

It is said that two men were engaged in a recent love affair. One is too many.
The truth, children, is that Sleeping Beauty slept with her mouth open and snored.

A Young Thing's Idea of Responsibility is to get up a picnic, which is rained on.

It is seldom one hears an interesting lie, though the people surely get enough practice.
After an undertaker gets through with a man there is never any likelihood of him coming to life again.

A woman may learn to like the girl her son marries, but it is only after a long tussle with jealousy and anger.
A man's relatives should live so far away that he feels like putting on a clean shirt when he goes to see them.

It is an indication that he broke the engagement when she goes into training for a nurse while she gets over it.

Turkeys will cost so much this year that every housewife is recalling that she had the kid last, and it is not her turn.

When a man wants to sharpen a knife he hunts up a whetstone. When a woman wants to sharpen a knife
she takes a few swipes on a crock.

There are two complaints which can usually be made of every woman:
She has too much patience with her sons, and not enough with their father.

Somehow, when every woman catches sight of herself and husband in a mirror, she is reminded of a story she once heard years ago called
"Beauty and the Beast."

It doesn't make much difference if the young man is eligible or not;
Mother smiles patiently when the daughters claim to him that they made the bread.

In towns where Miss Helen Gould has endowed no Y. M. C. A. or given no library, a newspaper may be found so lacking in gallantry as to say Miss Gould has a moustache.

It is a good thing to keep at least one building in the course of erection in a small town. It gives the people a place to go and find fault on a Sunday, outside of the regular church going.

When a man commits suicide, he doesn't think of how he will look, but a woman, before parting with life will take a bath, put on her best underwear and curl her hair. The sentiment of vanity clings to her till the end.

"I met a man the other day who said he had overcome three strokes of apoplexy by calling his mind into play. This man made me feel ashamed, since I cannot force my mind to make me quit smoking, until I remembered that he might be untruth-ful."—Drake Watson.

THE INSPECTOR WAS ABOUT.

August Herrmann, the president of the national base ball commission, is heartily opposed to child labor.

"Child labor," he said recently, is an interesting subject for me. I like to talk about it to manufacturers and to factory inspectors I get from these men a good deal of valuable and striking information.

"A factory inspector in the south told me once a little episode about child labor that made me laugh. There was also in this episode, however,
food for sober thought.

"The man said that he went one day to examine a mill that was notorious for its employment of children under the legal age. Wind of his coming somehow reached the mill ahead of him, and the little fellows were stowed away in various hiding places. Thus, on his inspection, he found a number of idle machines, but no children under age.

"He went prowling about suspiciously, for he knew that he was being deceived. In the stockroom he noticed a big packing case and going over to it, he lifted up the lid. Inside sat a little chap of 8 or 9 years.

"The inspector looked down at the boy. The boy looked up at him, and frowned and shook his head.

"What are you doing in there?"
said the man.
"Shut your mouth, you fool, and put the lid down," the boy whispered.
"Don't you know the inspector's about?"—Boston Post.

PROFITING BY CRIME.

New York World.—The peculiar suit brought by John Brown, of Angusta, Ga., against an insurance company to recover the amount of a policy upon the life of the wife whom he killed, as reported in the World some time ago, might well excite smiles
among those unversed in law.

Strange as it may seem, however,
Brown's chances of success appear to be about equal. While on the one hand in 1856 Justice Field, of the supreme court of the United States, observed, in a case almost identical with Brown's, that "it would be a reproach to the jurisprudence of the country if one could recover money payable on the death of a party whose life he had feloniously taken," and though the New York court of appeals three years later, in the celebrated case of Riggs vs. Palmer, held that where a legatee murders the testator he forfeits his legacy, there is an opposite view which has received the sanction of the supreme courts of such states as Nebraska and North Carolina.

The not illogical stand was taken that as the criminal law provides a punishment for murder, and since forfeiture of property has never formed a part of American jurisprudence, there is therefore no justification for an attempt "to supply legislation the necessity for which has been suggested by subsequent events."

In the North Carolina case it was held that a widow convicted of being an accessory to her husband's murder and confined in state prison is nevertheless entitled to dower in his lands.

"It would seem, therefore, that Brown may have a chance, since even in the New York court of appeals
two of the judges, Danforth and Gray, dissented from the prevailing opinion.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA.

Although the population of Russia is nearly three and a half times as great as the population of Japan, and its area nearly six times as great, the Japanese have a million more pupils
in their schools than the Russians.
They publish more periodicals and books. Although Russia has nearly nine times as many miles of railroad
the Japanese roads carry more passengers, though less freight. They send half as many again letters by post as the Russians send. With only about one-fourth as many miles of telegraph wires, they send nearly as many messages. Their trade per capita is greater than the Russians both in imports and exports, although the total trade of the Russians, of course, is very much greater. The apparent financial and military strength of the Russians is incomparably the greater.

RUSSIAN HAS ASSISTANCE.

Viceroy Alexieff, the Russian soldier visited America in 1878. A Washington official said of him the other day:
"Alexieff came here on the Cimbric with a number of Russians of high rank, and the quantity of wine these men could consume without being affected was the talk of the day. There were even effluvia in the newspapers on this matter.

"I remember entering the Russians' suite in Washington one day with Alexieff, and coming upon a young colonel who sat at a table smoking, with four empty champagne bottles
before him.

"Alexieff looked at the empty bottles and laughed.

"Did you drink all that without assistance?" he asked.

"No," said the young officer languidly, "had the assistance of a bottle of Burgundy."—Chicago Record-Herald.

TRACK

Changes Are Being Made

That Will Give

Better Service to Passengers on the P. F.

North Track to Be Moved Farther South and New Track Laid.

Five of the Engines Ordered From Pittsburgh for the C. H. & D. Are New Ready For Delivery.

A Pennsylvania civil engineer is engaged at the Lima yards in making a survey which will give the company plans for a decided change as well as improvement in the vicinity of the passenger station. It has been determined to straighten out the north track and bring it several feet south, thus giving more room on the north side which will be put in condition for receiving and discharging passengers from west bound trains.

Simultaneously with the moving of the track, a plank platform will be built running parallel with the brick walk on the south side, and a fence between the two tracks for the prevention of possible accidents is also contemplated. In order to straighten out the curve, which begins at the C. H. & D. crossing the target house at that point will be moved several feet north of its present location. The change is an important one, made at considerable expense and will be a decided convenience for passengers. Only one more move could be desired to improve conditions in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania depot and that would mean the complete demolishing of the rattle-trap row of ill-famed houses that line up along the north track, an eye sore to the public and for years a menace to the peace and dignity of the city.

READY FOR DELIVERY

Are Five of the Big Freighters That Will Come to Lima.

Supt. Cory, of the motive power department of the C. H. & D. has received word that five of the big Baldwin locomotives ordered from Pittsburgh have been consigned to Lima and are ready for delivery. It brings comfort to trainmaster Scott and the dispatchers to know that all of these engines are to be used on the north end exclusively.

The present equipment for the handling of the greatly increased traffic is miserably ineffective, and the operation is only carried through by a largely increased cost. There is scarcely an engine in the freight department, now being used on this division that can be sent out alone with a heavy train, and it takes two of the cripples to do the work. The cost of fuel in so doing, the extra engine men and the delay are all to be figured in the operation, but relief is now coming and everybody concerned is happy. Two of the engines that were ordered by the C. H. & D. before that line was absorbed by the C. H. & D. have been taken over by the latter and are now on the southern division.

Ready For Lights.

A number of poles and considerable wiring has been done at the C. H. & D. shops in performance of the contract made with the Electric Light Co. Within the next few days eight arc lights and a number of incandescents will be hung in the round house. That's Going Some.

Westbound Lake Shore passenger train No. 43 last Tuesday ran the seven miles between Edgerton and Butler in four minutes, which is at the rate of 105 miles per hour. The train covered the ninety-two miles between Toledo and Kendallville at the rate of sixty-two miles per hour, including all stops, which is not bad for a long distance. Engineer Guyant officiated at the throttle.

May Change Plans.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—It is stated that the original intention of the Lake Erie and Pittsburgh railroad to make Lorain its terminal may be altered, as great difficulty has been experienced in securing land in that city for the project. The road has an option on 300 acres of land at Huron and this may induce to make that point its terminal.

Coupon Tickets.

The Ohio Interurban Association, with sixty officials, has decided on interchangeable coupon tickets similar to those in use on steam roads. A committee was appointed to prepare a standard form.

Along All Lines.

It is expected that there will be a large passenger traffic on all of the railroads next week owing to the reduced rates which will be offered for Thanksgiving. The special rates cover a radius of 150 miles from Lima and a large number of people in this city are planning to eat turkey with their friends and relatives at a distance.

E. N. Odenbaugh, traveling passenger agent of the Pennsylvania, was in the city today.

J. Stanley Orr, traveling passenger agent and L. L. Korns, traveling freight agent, of the Southern Pacific, were looking after business for their line in Lima today.

Master Mechanic Gould of the C. H. & D. is in Toledo on business today.

The carpenter department of the Pennsylvania is this week engaged in putting in the false work for supporting the bridge spanning Sandusky river at Bucyrus. One of the abutments is to be rebuilt and strengthened. The unprecident flood of last winter damaged it slightly and it was considered advisable to build a new one. The bridge has a span of 125 feet.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

The C. H. & D. inspection party will on Sunday and Monday next inspect the Indianapolis and Springfield division of the C. H. & D. system, known as the western division.

Changes On the D. S.

J. H. Frazier, who has been officiating as train master of the southern division of the Detroit Southern, with headquarters at Springfield, has been appointed assistant superintendent with headquarters at Napoleon, succeeding A. W. Burch, who retires from the position of trainmaster of the northern division. The offices of trainmaster have been abolished on both divisions.

TWO

Full Court Days Taken Up

In Securing

Seven Jurors in Patterson Case.

Another Man Comes Forward Who Swears He Saw Young Shoot Himself.

Dramatic Scene When the Prisoner Objected to Presence Near Head of the Partner of the Dead Bookmaker.

New York, Nov. 18.—Although two full court days had been taken up in securing seven of the twelve jurors who will decide the fate of Nan Patterson, the former show girl who is charged with the murder of Caesar Young, the incidents in the court room have tended to keep up interest in the case. The receipt of a letter telling of an important new witness and the finding, during the examination of talesmen of another person, believed to be an eye-witness were the principal of these incidents, the prisoner's objection to the presence near her in the court room of Young's partner being scarcely less dramatic. The text of the letter which Mr. Levi received was given out today. It was written in German and signed by "L. Black." The writer claims to have witnessed the struggle in the cab and says that he saw Young turn the revolver against his own breast and fire.

"I saw with my own eyes, on the morning of June 4, a man in the cab with a pistol in his hand and a woman was seated alongside of him," says the writer.

"I saw the man raise the pistol which was in his hand; I heard the shot, and I ran as fast as I could. I kept quiet until now because I thought you had other witnesses but for the sake of the truth I must write you this. I am willing, should occasion demand it, and if you think it worth while to appear before Mr. Jerome and yourself and say that I saw the man hold the pistol in hand. I am ready to take an oath on this for the sake of justice."

The examination of talesmen was continued today in the same careful way that has characterized the procedure since the trial opened.

Seventh Annual Banquet a Success.

The County Seat of Putnam Made Merry Last Night By Many Statesmen.

Splendid Program of Reason and Wit in Which Representatives of Both Old Parties Took Good Natured Part.

The Putnam county annual "Crow Banquet" has become a political fixture in northwestern Ohio, and so popular is the affair that 250 men of prominence of both political parties, and from all over Ohio gathered in Ottawa last night to participate in the seventh annual acknowledgement of the democrats of Putnam county, that the republicans of that democratic stronghold were better election guessers.

The banquet, an elaborate one, was served at the Hotel Dumont, and after physical man had been satiated there followed a harmonious feast of reason and wit in which democrats, republicans and independent thinkers, victors and the vanquished, participated, the following program being carried out under the able direction of Mr. J. S. Ogan, of Ottawa, as toastmaster:

Charges the Husband With Infidelity.

Two Petitions Which Add to the Accumulation of Divorce Cases.

Jury After Returning Verdict in Larue Case Was Dismissed Until 9 O'clock Monday Morning.

Otto Klay in a brief petition filed by Welty and Downing this morning asks for a divorce on statutory grounds from Della May Klay, to whom he was married Sept. 11, 1902. Instances are alleged when the defendant left the city to meet other men.

Yesterday afternoon Attorney Klingler filed a petition for divorce on behalf of Charlotte, wife of Wm. A. Boop, who is charged with extreme cruelty. It is alleged that the plaintiff was repeatedly assaulted by her husband, who beat her with his fists and kicked her. They were married in Auglaize county, Dec. 26, 1896.

Wm. Yant has been bound over to common pleas court by Justice Mowen on a paternity charge preferred by Nola B. Van Meter, of Monroe township.

Still Waiting Decisions.
The circuit court judges who adjourned yesterday until 9 o'clock this morning when it was expected that some of their decisions would be ready for delivery, had made no sign up to three o'clock of being prepared. They have been in secret session during the two days and unless they decide to remain over tomorrow it will be necessary to return to Lima next week to clear their session here.

Settled Out of Court.
The case of Emma Foye Blitzer vs. M. K. Foye, administrator, was set for trial this morning, but after the jury appeared for roll call, the attorneys came to an agreement which resulted in a settlement. The plaintiff, who had sued for payment for services during the life of John D. Foye, by whom she was raised, accepted payment of the sum of $250 in settlement of her claim, and the action was dismissed.

Recovered Entire Claim.
A verdict was returned by the jury in the case of Wm. A. Larue vs. Nancy A. Jukes, last night, finding for the plaintiff in the full amount sued for $116. The claim, which was disputed as to the amount arose in the settlement of a commission for the sale of real estate.

Waived the Jury.
Attorneys in the case of John vs. Catharine Vaughn, an action for money agreed to submit the question at issue to the court this morning and the petit jury was dismissed until 9 o'clock Monday morning.

MOVED HOUSE ACROSS TRACK.

Clash Between Citizen and Rail-roads at Van Buren Causes Arrest of Many.

Findlay, O., Nov. 18.—A clash has been precipitated at Van Buren between the citizens and the employees of the Toledo, Bowling Green and Southern Traction Co. Geo. S. Stirling was attempting to move a small house over the tracks, when the motorman ran his car into the building.

The act aroused the citizens who threatened violence. Stirling was arrested and brought to this city, accompanied by fifty of his friends. During the night a crowd moved the house across the track, decorating it with American flags.

MIDNIGHT MURDER.

A Brave Policeman Was Shot Down While Performing His Duty.

Two Burglars Did the Killing.

Discovered at Work Robbing a Store They Turned the Weapons Upon the Officers Killing One and Fatally Injuring the Other Who Came to His Assistance.

Detroit, Nov. 18.—Patrolman John Daley was shot down and murdered in cold blood about midnight last night, by one of two burglars whom he detected at work in the rear of Wm. Dietrich's store at No. 75 Michigan avenue and Herbert H. Pickett, special officer for the Michigan Central railroad, was shot through the abdomen and probably fatally wounded when he ran to the policemen's aid. The murder occurred in the heart of the city in an alley off Michigan avenue and Wayne street.

Patrolman Daley's revolver was found a few feet of the store window which the burglars had partially opened. He had evidently turned to follow his assailants after he had received a mortal wound through the chest as he fell on his face a few yards off in the direction which his assailants had taken.

The patrolman's cry for help and the noise of the shooting awoke the neighborhood and the desperadoes pursued by a constantly increasing crowd, darted westward, seeking safety in La-

Fayette avenue and the alley that paralleled the avenue half a block northward.

Officer Pickett was a leader in the chase, having been within a block of the scene when he heard the shot that killed Daley. Pickett had followed the murderers nearly four blocks when they stopped between LaFayette and Third streets and shot him through the body. The bullet entered his abdomen and passed out near the back bone. Having fired several shots and effectually intimidated the pursuing crowd the fugitives turned in the direction of the railroad yards that lie west of the Michigan Central and Union depots.

Patrolman Daley was one of the most popular and efficient officers on the force. It is supposed that the purpose of the burglars was to work from Dietrich's store at which they were caught, into a jewelry store located next door. All descriptions agree that one man was white and the other a negro. A negro was arrested on suspicion within an hour after the murder.

ANOTHER ARSENAL WAS DESTROYED.

The Japanese Discovered the Location of a Russian Arsenal and Centered the Artillery Fire Upon it Until They Blew It Up.

Tokio, Nov. 18.—3 p. m.—A telegram from Moji reports the destruction of another Russian arsenal and magazine at Port Arthur.

The Japanese discovered, it is said, the location of the arsenal and centered their artillery fire upon it. After dropping two hundred shells in the locality they succeeded in blowing it up.

The Japanese are widening their gaps and are using them to move their guns forward. The Russians continue the spirited sorties, using hand grenades in their attacks.

RESCUED

The Passengers and the Crew

From the Burning Freight Steamer Mohawk.

Which Was Destroyed by Fire Last Night on Long Island Sound, Only the Watchman Was Drowned.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 18.—The Fall River Line Steamer Boston arrived here today with the crew of the Central Vermont freight steamer Mohawk, which was burned in Long Island Sound last night. There were 22 people on board the Mohawk including two women. All were rescued except the watchman. The Boston effected the rescue shortly before one o'clock this morning and at that time the Mohawk was hopelessly burned and shortly afterward there was an explosion which practically completed the work of destruction although the hulk remained afloat. The Mohawk had a cargo of general merchandise. She plied between New York and New London, Conn. The rescued party left Fall River for New London.

ALL QUIET AT PANAMA.

Washington, Nov. 18.—No alarm is felt at the offices of the Panama canal commission on account of the recent disturbances on the Isthmus followed by the landing of marines. Members of the commission have been advised fully concerning the trouble and today received a cablegram from General Davis, commander of the canal zone, saying that everything is now quiet.

GOING TO INVESTIGATE.

Toledo, Nov. 18.—A grand jury will be drawn on November 25th by order of Criminal Judge Morris. It is said the jury will take up the matter of municipal graft and alleged election irregularities.

DENIED PETITION.

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 18.—A special from Montgomery, Ala., says: The supreme court today denied the petition of Frank Duncan, for a writ of error in his case on the ground that the petition was not accompanied by the transcript of record. Duncan is in jail at Birmingham under sentence to be executed November 25th. He was arrested in Florida a month ago as a fugitive.

THEIR CHURCH BURNED.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 18.—The American street Methodist church was destroyed by fire late yesterday afternoon. Loss $75,000. Vice President elect Fairbanks and Senator Albert J. Beveridge were trustees of the church.

WILL END THE LONG DISTANCE RACES.

New York, Nov. 18.—An ordinance which, if it becomes a law will effectually put a stop to the six days bicycling races and other sports of endurance in this city, has just been presented to the board of aldermen and referred to the committee of highways. The proposed ordinance provides that in any bicycle race or other contest of skill, speed or endurance held within the limits of the city of New York, it shall be unlawful for any contestant to continue for longer time than three hours during any twenty-four hours. It further provides that no such race nor contest shall be held excepting between the hours of 7 o'clock a. m. and 11 o'clock p. m.

SOME STATISTICS ABOUT OUR EXPORTS.

Exports from the United States to Russia, Japan, China, Hongkong, and Korea show a marked increase in 1904 as compared with earlier years. To each of the countries named the exports for the nine months ending with September are larger than those of the corresponding months of 1903, while in the case of China the figures, although showing a marked increase over 1902, still fall slightly below those of 1902, but when combined with the figures of exports to Hongkong give a total greater than that for the corresponding months of 1902 or 1903.

The total exports from the United States to Russia, Japan, China, Hongkong, and Korea are shown by the Department of Commerce and Labor through its Bureau of Statistics as $56,445,233 in the nine months ending with September, 1904, against $44,861,366 in the corresponding months of 1903, and $47,663,931 in the corresponding months of 1902.

Similar conditions prevail with reference to imports into the United States from the countries in question. From Russia, Japan, China, Hongkong, and Korea the imports for the nine months ending with September, 1904, are in each case larger than in the corresponding months of the preceding year. The total imports into the United States from the countries named amounted to $65,789,922 in the nine months ending with September, 1904, against $60,375,325 in the corresponding months of 1903, and $49,540,359 in the corresponding months of 1902.

In most of the principal articles composing the commerce between the United States and these countries there appears a material increase in the figures of 1904 as compared with earlier years. To Russia the principal articles of our export trade are agricultural implements, manufactures of iron and steel, copper, naval stores, and raw cotton, and in most of these the figures of 1904 compare favorably with those of earlier years.

To Japan the principal exports are manufactures of iron and steel, mineral oils, flour, provisions, tobacco, and raw cotton. In nearly all of these articles, or classes of articles, except cotton, the figures for 1904 show an increase over 1902. In cotton the figures show a marked decline in exports to Japan, the total value of cotton exported to that country in the nine months ending with September, 1904, being less than 2 million dollars, against over 3 millions in the corresponding months in 1903, and nearly 6 millions in the corresponding months in 1902. This falling off in the exports of cotton to Japan is chiefly due to the extremely high price of American cotton during the past two years and to the fact that Japanese manufacturers of cotton goods have substituted in part the shorter stapled and consequently lower-priced cotton of India in their manufacturing.

THE PASSING OF THE CARNATION.

The passing of the carnation, florists say, is only a question of time and a short time at that. Already it has become unprofitable as a specialty and the specialists are dropping it and going into other branches of flower raising.

Among all the flowers that grow the carnation enjoyed for a time the greatest popularity, perhaps. Florists will tell you that for every one order received for roses, violets or sweet peas ten were received for carnations. It is a half hardy flower, it is beautiful in form and color, possesses a rare, spicy fragrance and is moderate in price—which qualifies place it at the head of the list of popular blooms.

The late President McKinley shared the general liking for the carnation and declared it his favorite flower.

During his occupation of the White House, the vases in the family apartments were filled daily with carnations and the president invariably wore one of the flowers in his coat lapel.

Red was his preferred color and one of the most beautiful red carnations ever hybridized was named the President, in his honor. Each morning he presented to Mrs. McKinley a bouquet of these blooms. His love for the carnation is still remembered and out in Canton, where his remains lie buried, there is always a fresh offering of the flowers on his grave.

Who first discovered the possibilities of the pink and started the development of the carnation is not known to the laity and probably not to many professional florists, for an inquiry among 23 of them brought forth no light on the subject. The pink has been known as a carnation for at least 40 years, say growers.

Many a grower has made a fortune out of the carnation, but it's a long lane that has no turning, and the

In other articles the figures of 1904 show a gain over earlier years. The value of flour exported to Japan in the nine months ending with September, 1904, is $2,810,202, against $2,581,029 in the corresponding months of 1903 and $31,025 in the corresponding months of 1902. Electrical machinery exported to Japan shows a marked increase in 1904, being $755,965 during the nine months ending with September, against $214,255 in the corresponding months of 1903, and $131,168 in the corresponding months of 1902. Locomotives exported to Japan in the nine months ending with September, 1904, were 58 in number, against 18 in the corresponding period of 1903 and 12 in the corresponding period of 1902, the value for the nine months of 1904 being $442,103, as compared with $175,213 in the corresponding months of 1903, and $111,152 in the corresponding months of 1902. Steel rails exported from the United States to Japan during the nine months ending with September, 1904, amounted to $686,639, while the corresponding months of 1903 show no exports of steel rail to Japan, and for the corresponding months of 1902 a total of but $3,195. Mineral oils exported to Japan in the nine months ending with September, 1904, amounted to $2,338,553 gallons, against 27,334,251 gallons in the corresponding months in 1903.

To China the exports in the nine months ending with September, 1904, show a marked gain over those for the corresponding period of 1903. Cotton cloths, mineral oils, manufactures of iron and steel and tobacco are the most important of our exports to China, though flour is becoming an item of growing importance, the total value of flour exported from the United States to China in the fiscal year of 1904 being $235,054 against $77,342 in 1894. Of mineral oils the exports to China for nine months ending with September, 1904, amounted to 57,153,030 gallons, as against 11,453,898 gallons in the corresponding months of 1903, and 25,485,485 gallons in the corresponding months of 1902, the value being $6,013,087 for the nine months ending with September, 1904, against $1,136,307 in the corresponding months in 1902.

Cotton cloths, of which the exports to China have been greatly reduced since the beginning of hostilities in northern China, which has been the special market for American products, are now showing a remarkable increase in the export trade to China in the months of September, 1904, the total exports of cotton cloths to China were 20,395,200 yards against 3,377,600 in September, 1903, and the value, $1,194,381 in September, 1904, against $168,208 in September, 1903.

To Hongkong the exports include a great variety of articles, and in nearly all of these there is a material gain over last year.

TRAINED TO RETRIEVE FISH. Dogs trained to retrieve fish are among the features of everyday life on the barren shores of Labrador.

The cod fisheries along the 1100 miles of Labrador's coast furnish employment annually to thousands of men. They fish with lines from 150 to 200 fathoms long, two men to a boat and each man using handlines.

The rapidity with which the fishermen haul up their long lines when they feel a bite robs the fish almost entirely of life and breath by the time it reaches the surface of the sea. It comes to the top as completely exhausted as a salmon that has been played by an angler until he can tail it with his hand and so avoid the necessity of gaffing.

It is one thing, however, to bring a heavy cod to the surface and quite another to get it into the boat. Gaffs and landing nets are unknown to these toilers of the sea.

If the fish is large and but slightly hooked, as is often the case, the hook breaks away from its mouth when the attempt is made to haul it from the water. The fish floats away from the boat on the surface of the waves.

This is only for a moment, however. The fisherman's trained dog, often without waiting for a signal from his master, leaps over the gunwale of the boat, plunges into the sea, swims after the floating fish and seizes it in his mouth.

Often the cod is aroused to consciousness by the grip of the dog's teeth, and struggles violently, making the work of the dog quite difficult. The animal, however, rarely releases his hold until the struggling captive is within the boat.

Sometimes these dogs have larger game than codfish to struggle with in the water. They are trained to plunge into the ice-cold waves in the spring of the year and act as retrievers for their masters when seal are shot from the shore on the surface of the sea.—Columbus Dispatch.

A WHITE PORCUPINE. (Gulfport (Conn.) Citizen) A purely white porcupine is an extremely rare animal, and yet Mr. Henry Beal, of Parkman, has one in his possession, and the manner of its capture is worth relating. Mr. Beal discovered a pair of these animals in his pasture, one white and the other black, and he succeeded in driving them up a timber ash sapling. Through the agency of his wife he procured a barrel, which he placed under the sapling, and by bending the tree over and shaking it, his wife at the same time striking toes of the white animal with a switch, succeeded in dropping him into the barrel. Mr. Beal has him caged at his place, in Parkman, and he is attracting much attention. He is smart and lively and is apparently satisfied with his quarters.

THE PEOPLE ALL

Chas. Cried, Give Us Newbro's Herpicide.

This word of late has been in every one's mouth, and many are wondering what the word signifies, though no one has yet been found, who will deny that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE does the work. Well, for the information of thousands of people who like to know all about a good thing, we would say that HERPICIDE means a destroyer or killer of "Herpes". Now "Herpes" is the family name of a disease caused by various vegetable parasites. A similar microbe causes dandruff, itching scalp, and falling hair; this is the microbe that NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE promptly destroys; after which the hair grows. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

OIL

Production During Past Year

Was Greatest

In the History of Use of Petroleum.California and Texas Have Been Very Important
Factors.While the Appalachian and Lima-Indiana Field Produced Over Half of the Entire Amount
That Was Consumed.

Among the natural products whose benefit to mankind never grows less is petroleum. The production for 1903 was greater than that of any previous year. This important fact is noted in the beginning of Mr. F. H. Oliphant's annual report to the United States Geological Survey, which is entitled "The Production of Petroleum in 1903."

The total production of crude petroleum in the United States in 1903 was 100,461,337 barrels, a gain of 11,094,421 barrels, or 13.17 per cent, over the production of 1902. The great increase was mainly due to the remarkable output in California, which is now larger than that of any other State. California produced 24.27 per cent, or nearly one-fourth of the entire production.

Next to California the largest gain in production was in Indiana, which was 1,705,515 barrels, an amount that represents a gain of 22.80 per cent, over the State's production in 1902. Kansas showed a remarkable gain in production—500,465 barrels, or 181 per cent; Kentucky and Louisiana showed gains of about 289,000 barrels each; Indian Territory gained 101,811 barrels, or 27.44 per cent; and New York gained 43,248 barrels, or 3.86 per cent.

On the other hand there was a slight decrease of production, 125,086 barrels, or 0.708 per cent, in Texas; and Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia all showed decreased production, amounting to a total of 1,556,619 barrels, or 3.98 per cent, in 1903, as compared with 1902. The largest decrease in production in 1903 was in Pennsylvania, and amounted to 708,724 barrels.

During the last six years there has been a very remarkable change in the percentage of the local production. The Appalachian and the Lima-Indiana fields, which for many years produced all but a very small percentage of the whole, produced in the year 1903 only 55.38 per cent of the total, whereas in 1898 these fields produced 92.99 per cent of the total. California and Texas have been the most important factors in bringing about the readjustment of the percentages of production.

The increased production in the States of Texas, Louisiana, and California of large quantities of an inferior grade of petroleum made necessary new markets and new conditions of transportation that were unknown in the older fields. Demand was also made for a large amount of capital to be invested in tanks, pipe lines, tank cars, and tank vessels. The markets and transportation for this new product have been secured to a very large extent. During the year 1903 the consumption of petroleum as fuel and as an enricher of manufactured gas has been very largely increased.

A considerable quantity of Texas petroleum has been refined with satisfactory results, but the percentage of the yield is much smaller than from the eastern petroleum. When the value of the petroleum produced in the Appalachian and the Lima-Indiana fields is considered in comparison with that of all the remaining fields, it is found that 82 per cent of the total value comes from the 55.38 per cent of the total production furnished by those fields, the remaining 44.02 per cent of the total production receiving 18 per cent of the total value. This means that 3.8 barrels of the southern and western petroleum is required to equal the value of 1 barrel of that produced in the Appalachian and the Lima-Indiana fields.

The general average price paid for crude petroleum was greater by 14.07 cents per barrel than the average price for 1902. The average price paid for Pennsylvania petroleum showed an increase of 35.25 cents; and the average price in the Lima-Indiana field was about 27 cents a barrel more in 1903 than in 1902.

Stocks held in tanks in both the Appalachian and the Lima-Indiana fields were considerably decreased during the year.

There was a slight decline in the quantity of all grades of petroleum exported during 1903, and a slight gain in their value when compared with that of 1902. A decided decrease appeared in the quantity of the illuminating petroleum exported and a considerable increase in both quantity and value of the lubricating petroleum exported during 1903.

The demand for home consumption continued to increase during 1903, the western demand being partly supplied by refineries in Texas, Kansas, and Colorado.

Mr. Oliphant's report is an extract from the Survey's forthcoming volume, "Mineral Resources of the United States, 1903." It is published also as a separate pamphlet and may be obtained on application to the Director of the United States Geological Survey, Washington, D. C.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES.

(From the Chicago News.)

A curly-haired chap, aged five, confided to some visitors in an aggrieved tone: "It's enough to drive a man crazy to have his mamma get up in the middle of the night and spank him 'cause he wants to talk."

"Mamma, is that all the pie I can have?"

"Yes, dear. It is quite a large piece for such a small boy."

"Then, mamma, please cut it in two pieces and give me one piece at a time."

A little girl was trying to make her doll sit up straight at the table, but she was meeting with difficulty. Finally she gave it a vigorous shake and cried: "Now you sit up there, young lady, or not a single step shall you go with me to the World's Fair at St. Louis, next week."

IT IS IN THE BLOOD

Neither Liniments nor Ointments Will Reach Rheumatism—How
Mr. Stephenson Was Cured.

To attempt to cure rheumatism by external applications is a foolish waste of time. The seat of the disease is in the blood, and while the sufferer is rubbing lotions and grease on the skin the poison in the circulation is increasing and being distributed to every joint and muscle of the body.

Delays in adopting a sensible treatment are dangerous because rheumatism may at any moment reach the heart and prove fatal. The only safe course for rheumatic sufferers is to get the best possible blood remedy at once.

Mr. Stephenson's experience with this obstinate and distressing affliction is that of hundreds who treat it at first as if it were confined to the part where it appears, and superficial. He says:

"About a year ago I was attacked by severe rheumatic pains in my left shoulder. The pains were worse in wet weather and at these periods caused me the greatest suffering. I tried a number of treatments and ointments but they failed to alleviate the pains. Then he realized that the cause must be deeper and the pain only a surface indication, a symptom of a hidden disorder that must be sought out and corrected by an internal remedy. He adds:

"I had heard Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People recommended as a cure for rheumatism, and when I found that I was getting no relief from applications, I made up my mind that I would try them. Before the first box was gone I noticed that the pains were becoming less frequent and that they were not so severe as before. After the second box had been used up I was entirely free from discomfort and I have had no traces of rheumatism since."

The change in treatment proved by almost immediate results that it was based on the right theory, and the quickness with which the improvement proceeded to a perfect cure showed that he had found the true means for the purification and enrichment of his blood.

People with inflamed and aching joints, or painful muscles; people who shuffle about with the aid of a cane or a crutch and cry, Oh! at every slight jar, are constantly asking, "What is the best thing for rheumatism?"

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," is the answer of Mr. Thomas Stephenson, of No. 115 Greenwood street, Springfield, Mass.; Mr. J. G. Munkel, of No. 295 Jackson avenue, Dubuque, Iowa; Mr. C. H. Hickey, of No. 3 Main street, Harris, R. I.; Mr. Henry Story, of No. 532 Muskingum avenue, Kansasville, Ohio, and scores of others who speak from actual experience.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are without doubt the best of all blood remedies. Their record in the curing of cases of anaemia alone would be convincing proof of that. They effect genuine and lasting cures in rheumatism. They do not merely deaden the ache, but they expel the poison from the blood. These pills are sold by all druggists.

REMARKABLE CASE.

(Chicago Cor. New York World.)

Somewhat akin to a patchwork quilt is the skin of Miss Emma Gallagher, of 626 Davis street, Evanston, who has inserted an advertisement through which she hopes to obtain enough money through the sale of sewing machines to enable her to buy another square foot of human epidermis for skin-grafting purposes.

Twenty-three skin-grafting operations have been undergone by Miss Gallagher since she was burned from the neck to the waist in a gasoline explosion eight years ago. Her left arm is still without skin and has grown to her body.

"Skin is higher priced than oil cloth," commented Miss Gallagher sagely, when she was asked to tell about her efforts to buy skin. "The average cost of human skin is about $1,000 a square foot. When I once advertised 100 men volunteered to sell theirs. Many of them faltered when they came to the test."

"All nations of the earth are represented in the skin that covers my back. You can call me Chinese or Eskimo if you like, and the chances are that you will not be far from right in some measure. I was originally an American, but my skin is cosmopolitan—decidedly so. If people will give me orders for sewing machines I will be able to get together enough money to secure more victims for the skin sacrifice."

A STARTLING TEST.

To save a life, Dr. T. G. Merritt, of No. Mohopany, Pa., made a startling test resulting in a wonderful cure. He writes: "A patient was attacked with violent hemorrhages, caused by ulceration of the stomach. I had often found Electric Bitters excellent for acute stomach and liver troubles so I prescribed them. The patient gained from the first, and has not had an attack in 14 months. Electric Bitters are positively guaranteed for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation and Kidney troubles. Try them."

BATHING IN JAPAN.

There is in Japan no city—hardly a hamlet—that has not its public baths. Some of these places are reserved for the wealthy, but in most of these bath-houses the greatest democracy prevails. Men and women who have spent the day at toil repair to the bath-house.

A slight amount of deference to western ideas has resulted in the separating of the sexes. From the street a room like a long hall is entered. The visitor steps in and finds that the bathing is all being done at the further end of this hall. The sexes are separated by a partition in the area of the overhead showers, but both men and women are visible to the in-stepping visitor. Neither the men nor the women resent observation. They chatter and laugh like children, spend some twenty minutes under the dripping water, then dress themselves to go out, clean and wholesome, for the evening's few pleasures. While hot water is provided at these public baths, cold water is far more in demand.—Japanese Physical Training, by H. Irving Hancock.

PRESIDENT LEIGHTON,

Of the South Side Bank, Bound Over to the Grand Jury.

Bond Fixed at Five Thousand.

Defendants Release Secured By His Father-in-law and Brother-in-law---Testimony That Was Taken Before the Close of the Hearing.

The preliminary hearing in the case against W. W. Leighton, president of the South Side bank, on the charge of embezzlement, was brought to a termination by the arguments of the attorneys in Justice Reilly's court after supper, last evening. At the close of the arguments, Justice Reilly stated that there had been sufficient evidence introduced to establish the probability of crime—all that was required in a preliminary examination—and he felt it his plain duty as a magistrate to bind the defendant over to the court of common pleas. He fixed the bond for Leighton's appearance at the next grand jury session at $5,000 and the attorneys on behalf of the defendant, contended that the bond required was outrageously high, but Justice Reilly was firm and insisted that bond in the amount stated be given. The document was prepared and was signed by the defendant's father-in-law, J. N. Dewey, of Toledo, and brother-in-law, Roy F. Dewey, of this city.

In arguing for the defense the attorneys contended that no crime had been committed; that Leighton had been given authority to make loans and if they were loans that were being made were not good ones the directors should have called a halt. He contended also that Leighton's overdraft was offset by a credit in the savings department of $10,000 and the $5,000 item of credit on one of the notes which had not been found in the books by the accountant.

THE TESTIMONY

That Was Taken During Last Hour of the Preliminary Hearing.

During the cross examination of vice president Mell, yesterday afternoon, the questions asked by Mr. Ridenour indicated that the defense was endeavoring to show that at least some of the officers of the bank, other than Leighton and Churchill, knew what was going on as to the management of the institution.

One transaction in which Mr. Mell had a $2,500 certificate of deposit cashed at another bank, "as a favor to Mr. Leighton," he said, was brought up and then on re-direct examination Mr. Mell stated that he had asked Mr. Leighton to call a meeting of the directors, but that Leighton refused to do so and declared that he (Leighton) and the Dewey's owned the stock in the bank.

Frank C. Pottig, who was employed as a bookkeeper at the bank, testified that he had been hired by Leighton, his salary was fixed by Leighton and he was paid by Leighton. He added that Leighton was in charge and made the loans and gave orders to Churchill.

C. W. Risley, the expert accountant, who has been making an investigation of the affairs and records of the bank, was the last and most important witness called. The general ledger of the bank, an individual ledger, a certificate of deposit register and the various notes, described by the Times-Democrat Wednesday, as those upon which the prosecution would base its case, were introduced in evidence by Mr. Welty. Mr. Risley stated that he had not yet completed his investigation of the banks records and then identified the various notes in evidence showing that Leighton had made loans of amounts from $1,000 to $10,000. To three of these notes were pinned certificates of shares of stock in the bank, given as collateral security for the loans represented by the notes. One note, representing a loan of $5,000 had a certificate of 250 shares in the stock of the Sandusky South western railroad pinned to it as security.

Mr. Risley further testified that the individual ledger carried an account with Leighton. The account had not been balanced and the balance which he struck from the entries showed that Leighton had an overdraft of $13,230.10. A Leighton and Churchill account in the same ledger showed an overdraft of $1,864.83 on the morning of October 12.

The note of Mrs. Leighton, dated July 30, 1904, for $8,800, had 176 shares of the bank stock given as collateral security and a loan of $4,500, dated July 18, 1905, had 45 shares of the capital stock of the South Side Lumber Co pinned to the note as collateral security. One note had a credit of $5,500 noted on it, but no entry of such credit could be shown in the ledger.

On cross examination, Mr. Risley stated that he could not say what he would yet find in the books and records of the bank, and could not state positively what a number of blank spaces found in the certificate of deposit record indicated. He found at the bank a card system of records of the savings department and found in the records of that department a balance of $10,000 due to Mr. Leighton.

The state rested after Mr. Risley had been examined and an adjournment for supper was taken.

HE COULD HARDLY GET UP.

"This is to certify that I have taken two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure and it has helped me more than any other medicine," writes P. H. Duffy of Ashley, Ill. "I tried many advertised remedies, but none of them gave me any relief. My druggist recommended Foley's Kidney Cure and it has cured me. Before commencing its use I was in such a shape that I could hardly get up when once down."

CLEWS ON SITUATION.

Henry Clews, the Wall street banker, commenting on the result of the election among other things says:

What will be the effect of the election upon business and upon the stock market? Upon business it is questionable if it will have any great effect, because the campaign evolved no seriously disturbing issues. Business was already showing a decided revival on account of the absence of distrust, and the election had no doubt been largely discounted, although the flush of victory may exert a temporary speculative stimulus. Of course, an important element of doubt has been removed, and it looks as if the country would be comparatively free from anti-trust and anti-tariff discussion for some time to come. There is only one serious obstacle to continued business improvement, and that is the present high level of nearly all commodities. Labor is high, raw materials are high or advancing and cost of living is high. At the moment there is little prospect of concessions in any of these quarters. Unions are keeping up the price of labor, trusts are keeping up the price of commodities, while comminative scarcity is keeping up the price of many food products and rents. In general it can be safely said demand has outrun supply, and until this situation is reversed no widespread reaction can be expected.

MONKS GO MAD.

(San Francisco Argonaut.)
"The Prison of Ten Thousand" is the name given by the wandering Arabs of the districts across Jordan to the fortress monastery of Mar Saba of the Dead Sea. Not many years ago there were actually 10,000 monks living in this grim and mountain retreat, and even today there are more than 1,000 left. The monastery is one of the oldest in the world, having been founded some 1,300 years ago by Euthymius, who lived there in a cave dug in the rocky wall of the Kedron ravine. The fair Empress Eudoxia formed a romantic attachment for this stern anchorite and built near by a tower, which still exists, from which she might watch him at a distance, for, true to his vows, Euthymius utterly refused ever to see or speak to a woman.

Now the tower is inhabited by a watchman who keeps constant guard against the incursions of prowling Arabs. Twice during the past century he place has been raided by hordes from the desert. The monks who live here today are the most rigorous of any in the Greek church. They pass their lives in everlasting penance, with no hope of pleasure and no cheerful incident. Many of them go mad from the horror and desolation of their surroundings. No woman is permitted to come within sight of Mar Saba.

MALARIA IN THE SYSTEM

Holly Springs, Miss., March 24, 1905.
While building railroads in Tennessee some twelve years ago a number of hands contracted fever and various forms of blood and skin diseases. I carried S. S. S. in my commissary and gave it to my hands with most gratifying results. I can recommend S. S. S. as the finest preparation for Malaria, chills and fever, as well as all blood and skin diseases. W. I. McGOWAN.

I suffered greatly from Boils, which would break out on different parts of my body. I saw S. S. S. advertised and after using about three bottles I was cured, and for the last three years have had no trouble whatever. A. W. ZASER.
217 Read St., Evansville, Ind.

I began using your S. S. S. probably ten years ago for Malaria and blood troubles, and it proved so good that I have continued ever since using it as a family remedy. It is a pleasure for me to recommend S. S. S. for the benefit of others who are needing a first rate blood purifier, tonic and cure for Malaria.
Arkansas City, Ark. C. C. HEMINGWAY.

Boils, abscesses, sores, dark or yellow blotches and debility are some of the symptoms of this miserable disease. S. S. Present a Token of Their Esteem to Retiring General Foreman.

H. B. Minnick Succeeded by F. J. Peace—Matter of Locating the New D. S. Shops Again Postponed.

Last evening at 5:30 o'clock, when the employees at the L. E. & W. shops quit their work for the day, they quietly surrounded their retiring general foreman, Mr. H. B. Minnick, and with Assistant General Foreman Herbert officiating as spokesman, they presented the former with a handsome gold watch and chain, which they had procured to give to him as a token of their esteem and respect. Mr. Minnick, in his presentation remarks, stated that during Mr. Minnick's more than four years of service as general foreman, his relations with the men had always been pleasant and agreeable and they hoped he would ever retain pleasant memories of his old friends at the L. E. & W.

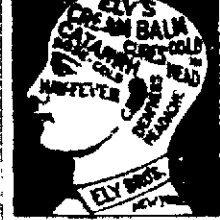

Mr. Minnick received the gift gratefully and thanked the men sincerely for the token. His successor in the position of general foreman, Mr. F. J. Peace, late of the Michigan Central shops at Michigan City, Ind., is now in charge at the L. E. & W. shops.

No Poison in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

From Napier New Zealand, Herald: Two years ago the Pharmacy Board of New South Wales, Australia, had an analysis made of all the cough medicines that were sold in that market. Out of the entire list they found only one that they declared was entirely free from all poisons. This exception was Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, made by the Chamberlain Medicine Company, Des Moines, Iowa, U. S. A. The absence of all narcotics makes this remedy the safest and best that can be had; and it is with a feeling of security that any mother can give it to her little ones. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is especially recommended by its makers for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

CONSOLATION IN DEFEAT.

The price of whisky is falling.—Florida Times-Union.

A BATHHOUSE MISTAKE.

Around Stockholm there are many suburban resorts where sea bathing is indulged in when the weather is warm enough. At one of these resorts a visitor observed a large signboard at a gateway reading "Dam Bad Haas." This notice gave him quite a shock, until he found out it meant "Ladies' Bath House."—St. James Gazette

THE STAGE.

Lovers of horse racing will be interested in "Thou Shalt Not Kill" as the second act shows an exciting one mile race from start to finish. The scene opens showing the grand stand as it is the day of the Union County handicap, and ten thoroughbred horses are entered. This exciting race is the most realistic ever shown on any stage, and is patented in America and Europe. "Thou Shalt Not Kill," will be the attraction here at Fauror opera house on tonight.

Low Dockstader, the greatest minstrel America has ever known, supported by a company of sixty star minstrels including ten solo singers, three full quartettes, an orchestra of twenty and dancers without number, will be seen at the Fauror opera house for two performances tomorrow afternoon and night. "The funniest entertainment New York has ever seen" is what practically every New York newspaper said of Mr. Dockstader and his company during their phenomenally successful engagement last October at the Herald Square theatre, and every one who wants to laugh should not fail to see this attraction when it plays here.

Low Dockstader himself in his famous misfit clothes, a suit which has been copied more than any other theatrical make-up in the world but which needs to be impregnated by Mr. Dockstader's personality before it exudes its brilliant humor, heads the company and with him are such famous minstrel men as Neil O'Brien, Carroll Johnson, W. A. McDonald, John King, Matt Keefe, Leighton and Leighton, Harry Ellis, Manuel Romaine and Wm. H. Hallett. Two sixty foot baggage cars are required to transport the scenery necessary for the great spectacular effects introduced and the production cost no less than $35,000.

The real laughing event of the season will undoubtedly be the appearance of J. C. Stewart's merry musical farce, "The Two Johns," at the Fauror opera house on Monday evening next. While this comedy has not been seen on this side of the Atlantic for ten years, it was so popular when here last that it will undoubtedly fill the house.

WOMEN'S WOES.

The Burdens Will Be Made Lighter If the Advice of This Lima Citizen Is Followed.

A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Many Lima women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. Lizzie Reinbauer, of 339 south Pine street, Lima, Ohio, says: "I recommended Doan's Kidney Pills in 1898 and I can say that no other remedy ever did me the good that I derived from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Since I used them first, procuring them at W. M. McMillen's drug store, I have been comparatively free from kidney trouble, and when ever I have felt any of the symptoms coming on, I have always used Doan's Kidney Pills, finding prompt relief. I might say that I have been relieved of ninety-five per cent of my suffering through the use of this remedy." For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BISHOP POTTER AND THE WOMAN.

When Bishop Potter was asked the other day what he thought of woman suffrage he made the diplomatic reply:

"My dear madam, I have gotten away beyond that. I am trying to make the best terms with the sex that I can obtain."

This brings to mind the mot of William M. Everts when asked by a lady if he did not think that woman was the best judge of woman. He replied: "Not only the best judge, madam, but the best executioner."—Boston Record.

GEISHA GIRLS ARE DEPORTED

Upon the Order of the Inspector of Immigration at St. Louis.

Washington Nov 18.—On the reports of Immigration Inspector Dunn, at St. Louis, the department of commerce and labor has ordered the deportation of fourteen Geisha girls and six Chinese who have been employed in a concession at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. The case has been pending for several weeks and a hard fight was made by the representatives of the Geisha girls to induce the government authorities to permit them to remain in this country. It is said that on the statement of facts set out in Inspector Dunn's report the authorities could do nothing less than order the deportation of the women. It is understood that they will be deported immediately.

You cannot cure piles by external application. Any remedy to be effective must be applied inside, right at the seat of the trouble. Manzan is put up in a collapsible tube, with a nozzle, so that it reaches inside and applies the remedy where it is most needed. Manzan strengthens the blood vessels and nerves so that piles are impossible. Manzan relieves the pain almost instantly, heals, soothes, cools and cures. H. F. Vorkamp.

MONEY-RAISING SALE*Overstocked! Overstocked!

The reasons for this great money-raising sale are logical and reasonable---we bought too early. This has been a backward season. The weather has been unfavorable and consequently we are overstocked; but regardless of these facts the bills we owe are due, and we must have money to pay them, and our only object is to secure enough money to pay them. This sale presents an extraordinary money-saving opportunity. Right in the midst of the season when most men or boys are yet without their fall or winter suits or overcoats, we herewith offer you the most sensational bargains you've ever bought. We except no previous event when we repeat that the following offering is the greatest ever known. The entire stock of Men's, Boys' and Children's Suits, Overcoats, Pants, in fact every article in the store without reserve as to color, quality or weight, go on sale and have been cut even below their former low prices. There is not a resident in Lima or Allen county or the surrounding country that can afford to stay away from this great sale. We mention below a partial list of big bargains, but there are hundreds of others. We promise you a great saving of money in patronizing the MONEY-RAISING SALE, and assure you that it is a strictly bonafide sale.
